

VERDICT FOR
DEFENDANTArguments by the Counsel and Judge's Charge in Case of Pearson vs. Courier-CitizenLate this afternoon the jury in the case of Fisher H. Pearson vs. Courier-Citizen Co., brought in a verdict for the defendant.The final arguments in the libel suit of Fisher H. Pearson vs. the Courier-Citizen company, began at the opening of the superior court session this morning. The evidence in this case was complete at the time of adjournment yesterday afternoon. Owing to a delay due to a consultation of attorneys in another case, court was not opened until after 10:30.Mr. J. J. Kerwin immediately began the argument for the defense. In opening his rebuttal, Mr. Kerwin gave a brief statement of the circumstances of the case as contained in the de-claration, saying that plaintiff was mentioned for appointment as judge of the police court at the time. He then read to the jury a copy of the alleged libelous editorial. There is, said the attorney for the defense, not one word in that article against the character of Mr. Pearson. What did the reading public understand? Simply that Fisher H. Pearson did not possess the necessary qualifications for the office.
The article showed that plaintiff had been active politically. Consider these things, Mr. Foreman and gentlemen, and then ask yourselves if it libels or defames the man? There are four questions to be asked in the consideration of this case, first, is the language libelous; does it defame Mr.
Pearson; is it a privileged article based

ON PRESIDENT TODAYWASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Pop Anson, Clark Griffith, manager of the Washington Americans, and Brownie Burke, mascot of the Cincinnati Reds, dropped in on President Wilson today and engaged him in a conversation on baseball."I used to tell folks during the campaign," said Pop, "that Taft was content to run things from the bench; that Teddy wanted to be pitcher, first baseman and everything and do his own rooting besides, but that the democrats bounced him and won out."

EATON MURDER TRIAL RESUMED

COURT HOUSE WHERE
MRS. EATON IS ON TRIAL
PHOTOS BY AMERICAN PRESS
ASSOCIATIONThe Plymouth court house, pictured above, was crowded to the doors, this morning, with friends and others interested in the trial of Mrs.
Eaton, who is charged with murdering her husband, Rear Admiral Eaton. The picture, here, of Mrs.
Eaton was taken at the opening of the trial yesterday. She wore mourning, but appeared cheerful and confident of acquittal.

MRS. EATON

The State's Case Against Widow Announced by Atty. Katzmann, Who Said Jealousy Was Motive for CrimePLYMOUTH, Oct. 16.—The state's case against Mrs. Jennie May Eaton, charged with the poisoning of her husband, Rear-Admiral Joseph Giles Eaton, was announced today by Assistant District Attorney Katzmann, who said that jealousy furnished the motive for the crime. He admitted that the case against the prisoner was mostly circumstantial but declared that the government had evidence strong enough to show that Admiral Eaton received from his wife the poison that caused his death.The suggestion of insanity was introduced by the assistant prosecutor when he told the jury that if they should find that Mrs. Eaton killed her husband while laboring under hallucinations that constituted an irresistible impulse, the state would be satisfied with a verdict of not guilty by reason of insanity.Throughout the two hours that Mr.
Katzmann was outlining the government's case Mrs. Eaton appeared to be unmoved. Occasionally she passed a handkerchief across her eyes but there was no trace of tears. Part of the time she rested her head on her hand as though weary, but generally she sat upright and gazed ahead of her.The principal witness of the forenoon was Dr. Gilman T. Osgood of Rockland, who described his visit to the Eaton house soon after the admiral's death.TRIAL OF MRS. EATON WAS RE-SUMED AT PLYMOUTH THIS MORNINGPLYMOUTH, Oct. 16.—The preliminaries over, the trial of Mrs. Jennie May Eaton charged with the murder of her husband, Rear Admiral Joseph Giles Eaton, started in earnest today.The court room was filled with spectators eager to hear the outline of the government's case by Asst. Dist.
Atty. Fred A. Katzmann. It was expected that the opening statement of counsel would be completed today and the first witnesses heard.Miss Dorothy Ainsworth, younger daughter of Mrs. Eaton by her first marriage, arrived here yesterday prepared to testify early in the trial. She was summoned by the prosecution and last night held a consultation with Dist. Atty. Barker. Her sister, Mrs.
Keyes, planned to come here today.

EXPECTS VERDICT OF GUILTY

"The prosecution contends" and "expects to show," said Attorney Kat-zmann in opening for the government,
"that Admiral Eaton met his death at the hands of his wife at his home in Assinippi by the administration" of poison to him. This poison was of the variety known as white arsenic. The in the following log of Senior Operator

W. Seddon, of the lost ship, sent to the Associated Press by wireless from the

"Volturmo found to be on fire at 6:55
a. m. in latitude 42.12 north, 34.51 west longitude. At that time my junior, Mr.
Templington, was on watch when the captain gave orders to send out distress signals, which was done immediately. We then called steamers Carmania, Seydlitz, Grosser Kurfuerst individually. I immediately finished calling. Seydlitz answered. We gave him our position; he replied he was coming under forced steam to our aid.
Just as junior gave our position reached cabin; immediately gave out distress call as soon as finished with Seydlitz, getting instant reply from Carmania. Then gave him position.
His reply was: 'Coming, all speed, now
55 miles from you. Hope to reach you
3 p. m. (Greenwich meridian time)'.
But he arrived at 2 p. m. During this time we kept up incessant communication. After giving Carmania position, Grosser Kurfuerst answered. Then I again gave position. He replied, 'Coming all speed.'
"Great difficulty experienced in receiving, owing to occasional earthing of aerial through teak coming into connection water tanks, on deck; this caused by sagging of aerial owing foremast supports giving way. After some time they managed to get mast propried, then leads altered right position, no more earthing took place.
Signals quite 6 k. Further hampered by ship rolling so great almost im-with Kroonland, 108 miles distant. Also gave him position. He replied: 'Cheer up, old man; coming all speed your rescue.' Five p. m. steamer Seydlitz came alongside to windward, 30 minutes later Grosser Kurfuerst arrived.

At this time Carmania ten miles distant, cruising for our missing boats which left ship when fire broke out.
On request returned immediately. All this time in continuous communication with all ships around us. Received prompt answers to messages. Then power set gave out. Did best. Used it as long as possible. Toward end current so poor junior holding starting commenced use emergency set, which lasted 12 midnight (Greenwich meriplosion blowing away aerial could work no longer. Worked set from we could not do more inside cabin did what little possible on deck. This very little, owing passengers refusing jump for boats which could not come alongside owing suction being great. Two a. m. (Greenwich meri-

Kroonland's boat, captain's orders.
Picked up unconscious. I stayed until last boat left with the captain, chief engineer, remainder crew.

FREIGHT RATES SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK

Inter-State Commerce Commission to Issue Definite OrderWASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Failure of the railroads operating out of Boston to conform to the conclusions of the interstate commerce commission acting as a board of arbitration in the import traffic case probably will result in the near future in a definite order putting the commission's conclusions into effect.The Boston roads now are charging lower rates on import traffic to points west than lines out of New York. It has been held by the commission and disapproved by the supreme court that disadvantages of geographical location cannot be redressed by the making of lower freight rates from the more distant point. It practically is immaterial to the commission whether the Boston rates are raised to a parity with the New York rates or the New York rates are lowered to the existing scale except that if the New York rates are lowered it would necessitate the readjustment of the west-bound import rates out of Philadelphia and Baltimore. David O. Ives, traffic manager of the Boston chamber of commerce has been in Washington for two days endeavoring to obtain some concession that would be favorable to Boston. The likelihood is that the only way out of the situation is that the commission will issue an order in the New York case making effective its decision as to the whole import question and its action will affect almost the entire west bound import traffic of the country.

FEAST OF SUCCOTH

The Jewish people last night at sundown began the observance of the feast of Succoth, or feast of tabernacles, and this will be celebrated until Friday night, October 24. This is the third and last of the string of holidays which began on Rosh Hasharab on the second day of this month. The festival of Succoth is to last, according to the biblical command for eight days, but a ninth day known as Simchath Torah, is generally added.
During the first two and last two days the Jewish people will not do any work or attend to business of any kind.
The supplementary holiday at the end of the festival will be celebrated on Thursday evening and Friday morning, October 23 and 24; it is called "Rejoicing with the law," because on that day the sacred scrolls of the law of Moses are read through during the cycle of the year. Services will be held in the synagogues of this city and on certain days the people will partake of their meals in tabernacles instead of eating in their own homes.The three days' convention of the

JOHN H. MURPHY

Elected a Vice President of the Mass. State Board of Trade

Nearly 150 delegates from cities and towns throughout the state attended the annual meeting of the Massachusetts board of trade held yesterday in the Civic association building at Norwood. The meeting opened in the morning and after the election of officers and reports from the president and secretary of the state board had been read, the delegates were taken on an automobile trip through the town of Norwood. The reports of the officers proved very interesting and showed the board to be in excellent condition, both financially and generally.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, John H. Corcoran of Cambridge; Secretary, Richard L. Gay of Boston. A list of vice-presidents was elected and they will be known as an executive council to the state board. Secretary John H. Murphy of the Lowell board of trade and the local delegate to attend the meeting, was elected a vice president.

The ways and means committee was given power to employ a legislative agent, who will devote all of his time watching bills that would be detrimental to the state and who will notify the business men when any move is made to handicap business interests.

Gov. Eugene N. Foss was the principal speaker of the day and he delivered his first address since announcing his candidacy for governor of Massachusetts. His address was replete with attacks upon the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad system and he made it clear that his campaign would be based on the railroad issue. An enthusiastic reception was given the governor when he was introduced, but no reference was made to his candidacy by the other speakers.

President A. K. Parker of the Norwood board of trade spoke upon the business possibilities of the future and general development of business. Other members of the board spoke, among them being John J. Corcoran, who presided.

The delegates were much impressed with the town of Norwood with its extensive manufacturing plants, and the interest the people take in the general development of the town. The Norwood Civic association buildings and grounds are maintained practically by a manufacturer. A part of the building is set apart for young people and it consists of a gymnasium, swimming pool, reading room and everything to interest boys and young men. Instructive motion pictures are shown there at the expense of the association and the buildings contain a large entertainment hall and dining room. The grounds adjacent are equipped for sporting purposes and are kept in excellent condition. The meeting adjourned late yesterday afternoon, after deciding it one of the most successful ever held.

VOTE TO REMOVE SULZER

RESULT OF SECRET BALLOT SAID TO FAVOR GOVERNOR'S REMOVAL FROM OFFICE

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 15.—The high court of impeachment is trying William Sulzer adjourned shortly after one o'clock to meet again at three o'clock this afternoon, at which time a start would be made on the final vote to determine the guilt or innocence of the governor.

It was reported that the court voted in its secret session this morning to remove the governor by a ballot of 43 to 14. A vote to disqualify him from ever holding another office under the state was lost. It was said.

There was not a single vote favor to disqualification, it was reported.

Every article of impeachment was voted upon separately, according to the news that leaked from the courtroom and not all of them were sustained. Those on which the governor was reported to have been held guilty are articles one, two, six and four of the impeachment charges. The three first are the "money articles" having to do with the alleged falsification of the governor's campaign statement and the misuse of campaign contributions.

Article four relates to the suppression of evidence by the governor before the Frawley committee, including the testimony of Duncan Park, superintendent of public works.

LIBEL CASE

on fact; was it malicious; was it true? There is no question nor doubt that he was a candidate. You have heard from his own lips that he had interviews with the governor in this matter.

The attorney then briefly reviewed the testimony of Mr. Pearson, the plaintiff, mentioning the various instances in which he was a candidate for office. At one time, when running for mayor, said Mr. Kerwin, Mr. Pearson received 76 votes. He applied this to the statement in the article in question that nine out of ten men would disapprove of the appointment of Mr. Pearson. The attorney went on to say that the plaintiff had been before the people, active in politics, instead of idly applying himself to his practice to better fit himself for appointment as judge. On one occasion, said Mr. Kerwin, plaintiff was removed from an office of trust for malfeasance, neglect of duty.

Continuing, Mr. Kerwin reviewed Mr. Marden's testimony, touching upon the latter's reason for writing the article, as given by Mr. Marden himself on the stand. The article was written, said Mr. Kerwin referring to Mr. Marden's statements, because plaintiff was at the head of the "Pearson case" because he had been removed from office, because of certain features of the police board activity at the time of the plaintiff's conclusion on that board.

In conclusion, the attorney urged the jury to carefully consider the facts in the case and not to be moved by sympathy. He described the circumstances as he saw them to aid the jury in their decision and expressed his confidence in their justice and intelligence to return the proper verdict.

THE SMOKE NUISANCE

he will not be until every chimney in the city has stopped issuing volumes of smoke, which is injurious to the health and comfort of residents of the Spindle City.

Mr. Riley this morning gave a sketch of the work done or being done in this city relative to the abatement of the smoke nuisance. He said the Bay State mill in Lawrence street was being equipped with a sort of oil arrangement, but the work was so slow that General Supt. Whitney finally got tired of waiting, and ordered the apparatus out of the plant, and now the company is equipping its plant with a steam jet of its own manufacture, a sample of which is now in operation in one of the company's mills in Providence, R. I., with good success.

Boat Mill

"At the Root mill," said Inspector Riley, "they are mighty slow. Some time ago plans were submitted to Agent Thomas for stokers and figures were given, but the contract is still to be awarded. Of course I understand that the equipment of the Boat mill will mean a very big expenditure, and I have no doubt that the officials of this company mean well, and will eventually install the stokers, but it seems to me they could be a little more active in their proceedings. I will see the agent at my earliest convenience and I hope by that time he will have awarded the contract."

Appleton Co.

At the Appleton Co. there are 15 Manning boilers, and they are all to be equipped with what is known as the Jones underfeed stokers. All the material has arrived at the mill and already eight of the boilers are working, while the workmen are working on the ninth. It will be but a short time before this plant has entirely done away with the smoke nuisance.

Merrimack Mfg. Co.

The plant of the Merrimack Mfg. Co. consumes about 110 tons of coal daily, and nevertheless it is the mill that offends the least. There are 10 boilers in the plant and 17 of them are equipped with Murphy stokers.

Massachusetts Mill

At the Massachusetts mill men are now installing new boilers and in order to keep the entire plant going, a portion of the old boiler system was recently put in operation, and consequently there is more smoke issuing from the Massachusetts chimney than before, but this will be remedied in a short time.

Blanchery

The officials of the Lowell Blanchery are doing their utmost to live within the law and consequently they are now installing their plant with a smoke consumer of their own device, and it is believed the apparatus will be very successful.

Shaw Hosiery

At the plant of the Shaw Stocking Co. in Shaw street, a steam jet of the company's own construction was recently installed and the inspector says this company comes well under the law.

Tremont & Suffolk

All but four boilers are equipped with the Jones underfeed stokers at the Tremont & Suffolk mill. Two of the others are equipped with the Climax smoke preventer, while the other two are still as they were when placed in the mill, but there is very little complaint against this company.

Lawrence Mfg. Co.

At the Lawrence hosiery the boilers are equipped with the Climax smoke preventer, and although the company is living within the law, its apparatus according to the smoke inspector is not on an equal basis with the stokers.

Bigelow Carpet Co.

At the Bigelow Carpet Co.'s plant in Market street men are now busy excavating for the new D & W 700 h. p. boiler which will take the place of the old fashioned Climax. The stoker has arrived and is now on a car awaiting its installation, which will be done in a short time.

There's a Nuisance

"There is a number of wood burning plants in this city," said Mr. Riley, "and they are a nuisance. I am now getting after them and I will insist they show better conditions as far as smoke is concerned. There is one firm which supplies power for ten different firms, and the boilers are kept going with wood shavings which are blown into the boilers by means of a large fan. The result is that the chimney issues large volumes of thick black smoke, and this will have to be remedied."

CHARLES SUMNER BIRD

Has Plan to Bring About a Better Understanding Between Employers and Workers

Charles Sumner Bird, the progressive candidate for governor, in a speech delivered in Taunton, this noon, advocated the establishment, in connection with each industry, of joint boards or "internal courts" made up of representatives of the employers and workers, as a method to secure industrial peace.

Misunderstandings and ignorance of actual conditions on the part of both employers and employees frequently breed strikes and lockouts, Mr. Bird declared.

Joint boards or "internal courts," as he termed them, would tend to bring the employer and employee closer together, and eliminate misunderstandings. They will tend also to wipe out the distrust and hatred that frequently exist and cause industrial wars, he maintained.

Mr. Bird declared, among other things, that he believes that "the people of Massachusetts, and most all of the laborers, stand shoulder to shoulder against the destructive doctrines of eternal war between employer and employee—the mistaken wasteful hate of the I. W. W."

Mr. Bird spoke as one of forty years' business experience and the employer of thousands of men, whose mills have never known a strike.

"I would say to every workman that I believe the time will come when a place for representatives of labor shall be made on every board of directors."

"I would say that I propose at once that the state of Massachusetts, which has done little effective work for industrial peace, shall give each corporation a certain time in which to establish a board or court of its own, which should have for its members representatives of both employer and worker."

Absentee Ownership

"I would say that in this way only could the employer learn of the needs of his men, and the worker learn of the needs of his employers—I would tell the workers that half of the misunderstandings which often result in violence and disorder come from absentee ownership, and because the officers of a firm or corporation which manage the industry have allowed themselves to withdraw too far from acquaintance with their workers. I know that the internal courts in each industry would bring them back to that acquaintance. I would say to the workers that often they misunderstand their employers, and the needs and perplexities of the industry, and I would say that meeting the employer in an internal court, where each side was represented would settle a hundred small questions, and prevent many a wasteful quarrel and needless strike.

Lead the Way

"I would say to workers that with their help behind this plan, we in Massachusetts could lead the way for the rest of the nation toward industrial peace."

"Before this campaign is over, I shall address the employers of labor in this state, and say how they can co-operate with labor. And if the employers who are responsible for the conduct of industry did not co-operate voluntarily by the establishment of internal boards representing both employer and laborers to regulate their relations, I would have the state compel the installation of joint boards in order to protect the mutual interest of all concerned."

Local Progressives Busy

The local progressives have planned several rallies for this evening and the progressive city committee is very busy. The rallies will be held at Highland hall in Branch street and Odd Fellows hall, Bridge street,—both at 8 o'clock. The speakers will include Rev. Robert W. Dabridge, of Pepperell; Charles H. McNamee, of Lowell, candidate for district attorney; Dr. C. B. Livingston, candidate for senator, and Cecil P. Dodge and John Fox, candidates for representative in the 14th and 17th districts, respectively.

The progressive publicity bureau is working overtime these days and is sending out literature galore. An appeal for contributions to aid the progressive campaign was made in a letter which Matthew Hale, chairman of the progressive state committee, sent to several thousand progressives today.

In Need of Money

Some people labor under the impression that the progressives have any more use for money than have their illustrious leader for many years, but it isn't so. In his letter Mr. Hale states that victory is already within reach of the progressives, but that the party is badly in need of money to continue the "most wonderful educational campaign ever made by a political party."

PRINCE'S PROTEST DENIED

BERLIN, Oct. 15.—The German crown prince recently sent a letter protesting to Imperial Chancellor Von Bethmann-Holweg, against permission being granted to Prince Ernest August of Cumberland, the husband of the crown prince's only sister, to occupy the throne of the Duchy of Brunswick without express renunciation of his pretensions to the throne of Hanover. This protest has proved unsuccessful for the imperial chancellor today sent a long reply to the crown prince in which he justified the position taken up by the Prussian government.

EATON MURDER CASE

commonwealth expects the jury to render a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree, the jury believes the prosecution has maintained its contention."

Subsequently the prosecutor added the qualification that a verdict of guilty must be returned "if the act is shown to have been committed by a rational being."

Mr. Katzmann indicated that jealousy was the motive for the alleged crime. He recounted the incidents of the admiral's courtship and his marriage to Mrs. Eaton and said that Admiral Eaton became a father to Mrs. Eaton's daughters, June and Dorothy. He told of unsettled life in the household, caused, he said, by June's love affairs.

Jealousy Was Motive

"This resulted," he said, "in Mrs. Eaton becoming irascible and developing the temperament which has brought her to her present pass. One form of this temperament was jealousy, unfounded jealousy."

Mr. Katzmann declared that Mrs. Eaton had repeatedly discharged servants and rebuked neighbors for alleged manifestations of affection for them for the admiral. For years, he said, Mrs. Eaton had tried continually to have her husband adjudged insane and committed to an asylum. The foundation for these attempts, he said, was Mrs. Eaton's accusation in the summer of 1908 that her husband had poisoned a child adopted by the couple the previous spring. According to Mr. Katzmann, Mrs. Eaton wrote to Prof. Whitney, the Harvard medical school chemist to whom the child's stomach was sent for examination.

"I rely on your finding poison in the child's stomach to have my husband declared insane," the official report, however, showed that he was due to natural causes.

The death of the child was followed, Mr. Katzmann said, by constant charges by Mrs. Eaton and by June that the admiral was dabbling in poison.

"Mrs. Eaton cried in the highways and the byways," said he, "that the admiral had poisoned the child and had tried to poison her and her daughters, Dorothy and June."

The government will show, the prosecutor said, that June told her mother on March 5 that the admiral had asked her: "How would you like to have your mother and husband put out of the way?" June had disagreed with her husband and was considered

FINDS HER UNCLE

Girl Unable to Speak English Went to the Wrong Unionville

UNIONVILLE, Mich., Oct. 15.—A light haired, blue eyed girl of 17, who cannot speak a word of English arrived in this village last night. In her hand she carried a paper on which was written:

"For Gab Manyall, P. O. Box 26, Unionville, Mich. North America. A dozen European languages tried to converse with her but were unable to make her understand. The paper also gave the information that her name is Maryla Caneek, that she is a Slav and is on her way to the home of an uncle whom she never has seen. It is thought the girl was sent here by New York immigration officials who directed her to the wrong Unionville, there being several places of that name in several states, including Maine and Massachusetts."

UNCLE IS LOCATED

UNIONVILLE, Conn., Oct. 15.—It was Unionville, Conn., to which Maryla Caneek, the young Slav girl now at Unionville, Mich., was bound when she landed in this country recently with a card bearing the address "For Gab Manyall, P. O. box 26, Unionville, No. America."

It was learned that there was a Gabriel Manyall with postoffice box 261 living here. He stated on being told of the circumstances that the girl was his niece and he and his family had been expecting her.

PARCEL POST A GREAT BOON

For the Farmer, Says
First Assistant Postmaster General.

Postmasters Association
Elects Maj. Crowley to
Executive Committee

At the 12th annual meeting of the New England Postmasters' association held at the American House, Boston, yesterday, Postmaster Robert J. Crowley of this city was elected to the executive committee and spoke at the banquet in the evening.

First Assistant Postmaster-General Daniel G. Roper, of Washington was the guest of the postmasters and asked them to induce the farmers to use the parcel post to a greater extent in marketing their produce.

"I need not dwell on the extent to which the city merchant and the mail order house are using the parcel post," said he. "It was expected that they would do so, but the farmers must be alive to the new conditions as well and take advantage of this opportunity. No single reform ever undertaken in connection with the postal service of the United States presents to our people such economic possibilities as does the parcel post."

"The small city merchant whose trade does not justify his employing delivery wagons or the sending of packages to suburban points should be greatly benefited; the village tradesman should be able to increase his sales to his patrons on rural routes; the farmer should find in these changes the opportunity he has been seeking to develop a more profitable market for his garden products by shipping direct to the consumer, and the consumer by this direct dealing can at the same time save some of the profits of distributing agents and materially reduce the cost of living."

Hits High Prices
"It furnishes our people with an instrument of wrenching loose and toppling over the superstructure of high prices that has been built up by private monopolies in control of all facilities for the transportation of commodities. In the establishment of the parcel post the people have placed the government on trial as a common carrier of merchandise. Ours is the task and we must make good. Everything is in our favor; the universal extent of our service, lower rates, a workable plan and simple regulations."

"I am particularly appealed to by the opportunity which exists for the exchange of goods between the city and rural districts. The farmer should find it comparatively easy to secure a ready market for his products. How fortunate would be the city resident who could receive at stated intervals, fresh from the farm, a hamper by parcel post containing, for instance, two pounds of butter, two dozen of eggs, two spring chickens, two quarts of strawberries, two quarts of green peas, a half-peck of spinach, a supply of onions, radishes, lettuce and rhubarb. Such packages would be taken from the farmer at his own door, carried anywhere (within 150 miles) and laid at the door of a customer, for 24 cents. I foresee the development of an enormous amount of business of this kind."

PULPIT ORATOR

Fr. Reardon of Baltimore Will Speak at Sacred Heart Sunday

At 6.30 P. M. next Sunday evening, special services in connection with the Catholic Church Extension society will be held at the Sacred Heart church, and the music, sermon, etc. will be appropriate to the occasion. The regular church and sanctuary choir have been rehearsing a special musical program, and the sermon will be preached by Rev. M. J. Reardon of Baltimore, Md., a noted pulpit orator.

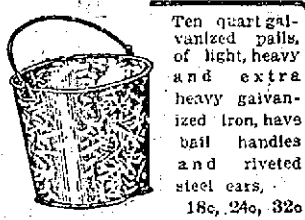

The work of church extension is now receiving a great deal of attention in the Catholic church. Cardinals, bishops and the clergy generally are urging wider co-operation between the various churches throughout the country and the results of late years have been highly satisfactory. Many of the Catholic societies are also interested in church extension and have set apart funds for its furtherance. The eloquent preacher who is to speak next Sunday at the Sacred Heart church is thoroughly familiar with what is being done and the announcement of his name will without doubt fill the church to its capacity.

The musical program will be the following:
Organ prelude.....John J. Kelly.
Hymn, "Act of Contrition."
Composed by Sisters of Notre Dame.
Trio, "Jesus Del Vini," Sanctuary Choir.
Mrs. Philip Mooney, John McMahon.

LOWELL SURE OF BERTH

Cannot be Shaken From the New England League Circuit—New Cities May Enter

What teams will compose the New England league's 1914 circuit is the question now being thought over by fans and magnates alike. Up to date it is an open question although the fact is generally conceded that the eight clubs which represented eight cities this past season will not all of them be with next year.

Lowell, however, can ill afford to be dropped by the powers that be. This city has been one of the mainstays of the New England league since the beginning of "the little old league" as it is often called. Lowell fans need fear but little the rumor that a club will not represent this city next season or any other season.

Manchester has been looked upon with longing eyes by most of the magnates who are up against a losing proposition with their clubs. Brockton, New Bedford and Fall River have all attempted to get hold of the new ball yard erected at Manchester this year but without success.

New Bedford is possibly the poorest town for baseball in the circuit. At one of the games late last season between the home club and Brockton but thirty adults paid admission to the park. This seems incredible to the fans in a live sporting city but is the truth nevertheless. New Bedford's fact did not support the recent pennant winner in 1910 as well as the majority of baseball towns turn out for the leader of the second division.

Brockton and Fall River are practically as bad. Three cities which could be reached with only a moderate expense account and which would patronize the game as it should be would put the New England league on a firm basis. The next thing to do, however, is to discover these cities.

Manchester, as previously stated, would make the greatest addition to the league of any of the cities under consideration. Lowiston has been much talked of as a harbor for a shipwrecked New England outfit. At this time it does not look probable that either of these cities will be found in the circuit although either or both may be.

In Manchester the fans want organized ball. The baseball park which was completed this summer is owned by the Amoskeag corporation and was used this summer by the baseball teams of their employees. Saturday was practically the only day that the park was in use and if the company feels that their teams should have the use of the grounds arrangements could be easily made whereby the two leagues would not interfere. Such an arrangement may be made but it is certain that a second rate team will never find a permanent berth in Manchester.

Salem and Fitchburg have also been discussed many times as possibilities for New England league ball but the wise men around the circuit seldom give either of these villages more than a passing thought. Salem is the better town of the two and perhaps will find somebody soft enough to be sold bricked into taking a team there but Fitchburg couldn't support a $1200 salary limit club.

It is difficult to say just now whether the personal of the New England league will meet with any radical changes or not but rumors are flying around thick and fast that some changes are bound to occur.

CLEVER ENTERTAINMENT

PRESENTED BY WOMEN MEMBERS OF PASTOR'S BIBLE CLASS OF GORHAM ST. METHODIST CHURCH

A two-act sketch entitled "The Village Wedding" was presented to a large audience last night at the Gorham street Methodist church by the women members of the pastor's Bible class.

Despite the inclement weather the audience was large and all present greatly enjoyed the play and showed their appreciation by the applause accorded the performers. The parts of the play were sustained by the following: Mrs. Fred Pickles, Mrs. Joel Scoble, Mrs. Sarah Potter, Mrs. Edgar Brooks, Mrs. Thomas Gardner, Mrs. Walter Killeby, Mrs. Jacob Norris, Mrs. John Crab, Mrs. Sam Aquilino, Mrs. Sarah Bramhall, Mrs. Mary Baron, Mrs. Carrie Heading, Mrs. N. W. Matthews, Sr., Mrs. Grace Thompson, Mrs. Fred Brooks, Mrs. Robert Cudworth, Miss Sarah A. Aveyard, Mrs. Edward Clegg, Mrs. John

Laycock, Mrs. Joseph Sutcliffe, Mrs. J. H. Marsh, Mrs. James Howarth. The flower girls were Misses E. Irene Potter and Alice Loraine Leth.

Mrs. William Ingham was directress of the production. The committee having charge of the entertainment was as follows: John H. Marsh, chairman; Mrs. Ingham, Mrs. Potter, Mrs. Scoble, Mrs. Felndel, Mr. Pickles and Mr. Turner. The Imperial orchestra was directed by James Smith, and the accompanist of the evening was Albert Ingham. The proceeds of the entertainment went to the Sunday school fund.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE

A free lecture on Christian Science will be given at 8 p. m. Sunday, Oct. 13, at Colonial hall, Palmer street, by Judge Clifford P. Smith, C. S. E., member of the board of lecturers of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston. These lectures are unique as being the only authorized public discourse on this subject and should be attended by all desiring to be correctly informed regarding Christian Science.

OVERCOATS

Did you say that you were tired of sameness in Overcoats? That you feel as though you would like to wear something a bit original this season? When you inspect our Fall Overcoat display, it won't take you long to see that we have anticipated you. Even if your ideas are extreme, you will find combinations of cut and color surprising them.

From the extreme, the styles and patterns graduate to the standby conservatives—in a range of effects and prices to meet the requirements of any man who dresses in good taste.

As to value—well—the product of our workshops located on the premises has always stood for Honest Clothing Dealing. Our reputation and guarantee is back of every garment.

CANDIDATE WALSH SPOKE

Scored Action of Public Service Board in Approving $67,000,000 New Haven Bond Issue

BLACKSTONE, Oct. 15.—The Hon. David I. Walsh was given a great reception here when he spoke for the election of the democratic ticket.

He took for his topic the approval of the New Haven bond issue by the public service commission, and said that the action of the commission was an argument for the giving of veto power over the acts of the commission to the governor.

Mr. Walsh said in part: "A speedy illustration of the desirability of legislation such as is advocated in the democratic state platform, giving the governor veto power over orders of the public service commission, was furnished by the action of the public service commission in approving the $67,000,000 bond issue of the New Haven road."

"Our platform holds, and I hold, that upon all these important questions of public policy the public should be able to hold accountable some elected public servant. The public service commission not only is not accountable to the public, but I shall not, when elected governor, be able to hold a majority of its members accountable to me before the first day of July, 1915, as it will not be until that date that the terms of a majority of the present board expire."

"Regardless of the merits of this decision, the fact that the commission failed to reach a unanimous agreement on the approval of this order, and particularly the fact that the dissenting opinion was rendered by a member of the commission of high standing in the legal profession and who enjoys to an unusual degree the confidence of the public, will immediately raise doubts in the minds of a large proportion of the public as to the propriety and legality of the commission's order; this will tend at the very outset of the commission's career to lessen that public confidence which is absolutely necessary under our present system of public supervision and control of the public service corporations."

"Everybody knows that the constitution gives the governor the power to veto the most trivial acts of legislation. It seems much more important that the governor should have the power to veto decisions of a board not directly answerable to the public upon great matters of public policy."

"This particular decision embodies a very important policy, and it is a surprise to many to find that the legislature has given such power to this commission. If an act of the legislature contained these provisions, every one would agree that the chief executive would be confronted with a serious problem as to whether he should exercise the veto power."

"The democratic party platform demanding that he be given such a veto power over decisions of public service commissions is in line with the policy of making some elected public servant directly responsible to the people for every important policy adopted in their name."

2 BITTEN BY MAD DOG

LITTLE CANINE ALSO ATTACKED NINE DOGS, A GOAT AND COOPFUL OF CHICKENS IN SALEM

SALEM, Oct. 15.—The scare caused by a dog which ran mad through the streets of the city last Saturday was intensified last night, when it was found that the animal was suffering from rabies.

Two persons, Denis J. Barry, a police officer, and Mrs. Mary Corrigan, were scratched or bitten. They will be sent to the Pasteur Institute for treatment. Whether this will be at the expense of the town or of the owner of the dog has not been decided by the health authorities.

They have in quarantine at present nine dogs, a goat and a coopful of chickens which were bitten by the mad animal.

Are you letting thin impure blood destroy your daughter's health? Most growing girls have impoverished blood. Do not take it for granted that your daughter is free from it. Even now she may be in the first stages of bloodlessness and it is for your watchfulness and care to prevent a lifetime of misery for her.

Thin, impure blood is the cause of your daughter's pallor. It keeps her frail, languid, irritable and nervous. As it becomes more chronic it will cause shortness of breath and palpitation of the heart. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills correct these alarming symptoms by furnishing an abundant supply of rich, red blood. This quickly brings color to the pale cheeks and lips, brightness to the eye and strength and vigor to the whole system. Get a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from your druggist today, give them a fair trial and you will agree that they have no equal as a tonic for girls in their teens.

Two helpful booklets, "Building Up the Blood" and "Plain Talks to Women" will be mailed free on request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or will be sent by mail, postpaid, at 50 cents per box or six boxes for $2.50 by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

PLOT TO KILL DIAZ

Declared That Mexican Conspirators Plan Assassination in Havana

HAVANA, Oct. 15.—General Felix Diaz, who is now on his way from Europe to Mexico, is believed to be in danger of assassination on his arrival at Havana. The Cuban government has received information that a band of Mexican conspirators are planning to kill General Diaz, who will reach here on Friday evening or Saturday morning on the steamer Corovado. The secret police express hope of arresting the conspirators, and the government has issued orders that the utmost precautions be taken to insure the safety of General Diaz.

UNDER HAMMER

Real Honest and Truly Houses Sold for $15 in South Boston

BOSTON, Oct. 15.—What should you think if someone told you that you could buy a regular size enough house in the city of Boston for $15. Not a shanty or a shack, but a regular house, with hot and cold water, furnace, and all that? The real thing. Better ones for $50. Several still better at $70. Nothing in the lot over $80? "It can't be done," you say. But it can be done, and without a make-up, too. It was done yesterday. Real houses, until recently occupied by real human beings, were sold at the above prices by the city, and John C. Killey, the city's real estate expert, acted as auctioneer.

He had hard work selling them, too. Even at these prices. There's a reason. Here it is: Every purchaser of a house had to lug it off with him. Not exactly that, but figuratively speaking.

The city is about to build a new police station in South Boston to take the place of station 8 on Broadway. It has purchased the lot of land bounded by D. Athens and West Third streets on which to build the new station. The land was already covered with buildings. Some pretty good ones, too. They had to be sold. Mr. Killey tried private sale. On account of the fact that the buyer must remove his purchase in 30 days they went slowly. An auction was decided upon. It occurred yesterday.

The bids ranged from 50 cents to $80. Think of bidding half a dollar for a regular city three-story building in a good location! Nothing doing on the 50-cent bids, though; the auctioneer couldn't hear any bid under $15. Still, you had to start them on something. Here are some sample bargains.

Three-story building, 235-233 Athens street, went to Fomery & Co. for $55. The next house, 234, went to Julia Barish for $20, who also purchased 227 D street for $70, and 195 West Third street for $15.

William Wood bought the wooden block 269-273 D street for wood, it is said. Price, $50.

The New England Construction company bought 275 D street for $50. This company also bought a nice house on Perkins place for $50.

All the houses went "as is." This includes name plates. Michael Corrigan, a G. A. R. veteran, found this out. He has lived for years at 227 D street, and they sold the house over his head.

He had to move lively to save the name plate which has been on the front door for more years than he cares to think about. Mr. Killey was just selling the house.

"Sixty dollars," said someone. "Does that include the door plate?" asked someone else.

"Sure," said the auctioneer. "If it's on the door of the house when the hammer falls."

"What's that?" said Mr. Corrigan, grabbing a screw driver and a hammer as someone called "55 for the house and door plate."

"Give him time," yelled the crowd. Which the auctioneer obligingly did, meanwhile admonishing him to move lively or the house would be sold and moved away from the doorplate came off. Just as the last screw came out someone bid $70.

"Going, going, gone. Sold for $70, without the doorplate," said the auctioneer, and the sale was over.

PLAY A SUCCESS

Miss Pauline Cumings' "Getting Rid of the Duke" a Hit

"Getting Rid of the Duke," a three act comedy written by Miss Pauline Cumings, a well known young girl of this city, was presented at Colonial hall last night under the auspices of the Miss Bachelor Girls before a fair sized and appreciative audience.

The scene of the play opens at the summer home of Senator Matherson, father of Rose, the American beauty who wins the love of Jack Howard and the Duke of De Bligny. The young girl favors neither of the men at first but the Senator and Mrs. Matherson are anxious for her to marry the Duke. However, Jack and a friend named Tom Hastings, plan to prove the duke a coward and after several exciting incidents they succeed and Jack comes out a real hero, and in the last act he wins the heart and hand of the pretty girl.

Much praise should be given Miss Cumings for the success of the play and all who witnessed the delightful presentation last night expressed much favorable commendation to the author and members of the cast.

Misses Hazel Chamberlain and Mildred Tinker entertained between the acts by appearing in several specialty dances. Both of the young ladies won

THE MEXICAN SITUATION

UNITED STATES PLAYING THE WAITING GAME—PRES. WILSON DOES NOT EXPECT REPLY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—The Mexican situation remained unchanged today and administration officials agreed generally in the view that Huerta would make no reply to President Wilson's latest note. The seriousness of the situation, however, was unaltered and the attitude of the Washington government was still a waiting one with the United States in the attitude of a close observer.

ITALY INVITED

To Participate in the Assembling for an International Fleet of Warships at Hampton Roads

ROME, Oct. 16.—Thomas Nelson Page, the American ambassador to Italy, has presented to the Italian government an official invitation to participate in the assembling of a great international fleet of warships at Hampton Roads in celebration of the opening of the Panama canal. It is believed that Italy will send one of her best squadrons.

Postmaster Neil R. Mahoney of North Billerica attended the meeting of the Postmasters' association held in Boston yesterday.

CAUSED DEATH

night, so a prediction of fair weather on Tuesday with moderate westerly winds was issued.

The prediction was not two hours old before Capt. Cod and Nantucket were being swept by a northeaster typical of early winter rather than mid-autumn for the gale brought with it rain, sleet and snow and on Cape Cod a stiff sand blast. The storm was apparently treated by the weather experts on Tuesday forenoon as well out to sea but the center was placed somewhere between Cape Cod and Nantucket. Under ordinary conditions the storm would have moved along to the northeast with the wind backing to the northwest on the New England coast as the center neared the Grand Banks. The weather actually cleared a bit on Cape Cod and the wind backed to a trifle west of north late Tuesday but at midnight it was again northeast and the weather became thick. It became apparent on Wednesday that the storm center, instead of being off Nova Scotia was not many miles from Cape Cod and that it was practically stationary. The storm at 8 a. m. today was still off the cape with the lowest barometer, 29.66, at Nantucket and the highest wind velocity, a mile a minute, at Highland light.

The storm broke on the full of the so-called hunters moon, with a high course of tide but the local waterfront was not seriously affected as the wind in Boston during the storm was a trifle west of north. On Cape Cod, however, and especially inside of the bay on the Sandwich and Barnstable shores the tide today was very high.

SIGNS TORN DOWN

kept constantly on the jump following certain member of the progressive party who posted large signs on the city's trees announcing a rally. The superintendent drove around in his carriage and armed with a hammer and a screw driver and other tools, he undid what the progressives did. However, as Mr. Kernan has no ill feeling against the new party, he carried all the signs as well as the tools to his office at city hall and he wishes it known that the members of the party will receive the same upon application at the park department's office at city hall without any extra charge, for as he told the writer this morning they may need the signs again, but he issues a statement that they are not to be posted on public property or the law will take its course.

New Band Stand

Architect Harry Prescott Graves will tomorrow night submit his plans on the new bandstand to be erected on the South common to Commissioner Cummings of the public buildings department and Park Commissioner Carr. These two men as well as the superintendent of parks and public buildings will meet in the park department office to examine the said plans. The same will either be accepted or rejected, and if they are accepted, bids will be called for in a couple of days. Mr. Cummings stated this morning there will be a proviso in the contract which will empower the city officials to stop the work at any time if the weather becomes too cold, and also to extend the time limit in the event of work being stopped.

Hunters Busy

At noon today 525 hunters' licenses had been issued at the city clerk's office. The hunting season was opened on the first of the month, and since that time many are taking daily walks about the surrounding woods, where squirrels are much in evidence. Last year 625 licenses were given out and it is believed the number this year will be much larger, for there are many who are waiting for real game hunting before taking out their permits.

Permits Issued

The United States Construction Co. was today granted a permit for the erection of a one-story wooden building at the corner of Westford and Coral streets. This building will be 55 feet by 22 feet and will contain two stories; its cost will be $2000.

The P. Dempsey estate was given a permit for an addition and general alterations to a dwelling house in the rear of 126 Salem street at a cost of $2500.

GOV. FOSS SPOKE

The Railroad Situation Will be His Chief Campaign Issue

BOSTON, Oct. 16.—That the railroad situation will be the paramount issue in the campaign of Gov. Foss for reelection was indicated in an address the governor made before the state board of trade at Norwood yesterday. He attacked the former management of the New York, New Haven & Hartford road and arraigned the legislature for its action on the trolley bill, under which the New Haven road was allowed to acquire electric railway lines in the western part of the state.

"The great question before the people of Massachusetts and, indeed, of all New England at the present moment," said Mr. Foss, "is the transportation problem. We have to face the unpleasant and undoubted fact that our railroad service has been seriously impaired and is in a condition approaching demoralization.

"Clearly the situation demands prompt and vigorous action. We can no longer drift. We must have a railroad policy—a policy that shall ensure the people of the commonwealth the kind of transportation service to which they are entitled."

FORMER UNITED STATES SENATOR HENRY G. DAVIS IS NEARLY WELL, BUT SAYS HE'S WELL

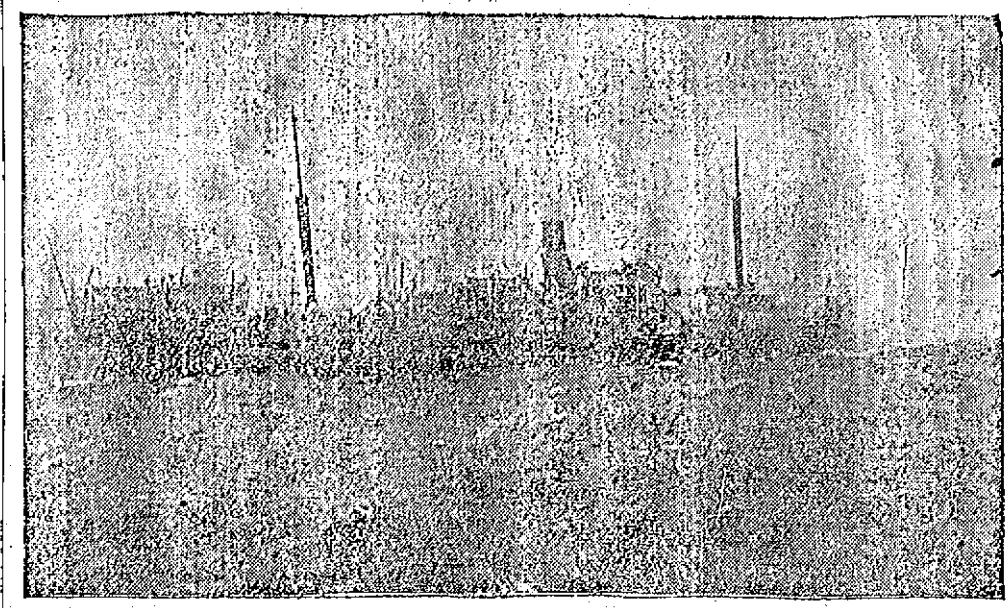

ELKINS, W. Va., Oct. 16.—Former United States Senator Henry G. Davis, once candidate for vice-president on the democratic ticket with Alton B. Parker, who was reported seriously ill, laughed at the report that he was in declining health. He said that he was preparing to visit Washington and for his ninetieth birthday anniversary on Nov. 18. But, Mr. Davis' friends realized that his advanced age might at any moment tell against him even in a slight illness which he himself might consider lightly.

VOLTURNO OFFICER SAYS SCENE ON BOARD LINER WAS TERRIBLE--WOMEN SHRIEKED AND PRAYED TO BE SAVED

VOLTURNO BURNING AT SEA WITH PASSENGERS ABOARD, FROM FIRST PICTURE TAKEN ON GROSSER KURFUERST

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—A Volturmo officer named Dinselman who was rescued from that steamer by the Grosser Kurfuerst, in port yesterday gave a graphic account of the fire which destroyed the ill-fated liner. In an interview he said:

"The scene aboard the Volturmo after the fire had been discovered was terrible. Women shrieked and prayed. Men rushed about in impotent frenzy when they realized that the raging storm made escape from the vessel an impossibility. As the flames licked their way from the hold to the steering compartment their progress was accompanied by the screams of its hundreds of occupants. Gradually as the fire made greater and greater local supply was cut off so the engine fires died down. We used our last ounce of steam to keep the wireless plant working. When the steam was all gone we kept the wireless going by a hand generator.

"At nine o'clock last night great flames were shooting out of the saloon lighting the dark water. The passengers were crowding the rails aft. It looked as if the end had come.

"When the boats of the Kronland put out to try to reach us, Captain Rich tried to shoot a lifeline to them, but it fell short. Just after this the ship was rocked by a terrific explosion on the bridge.

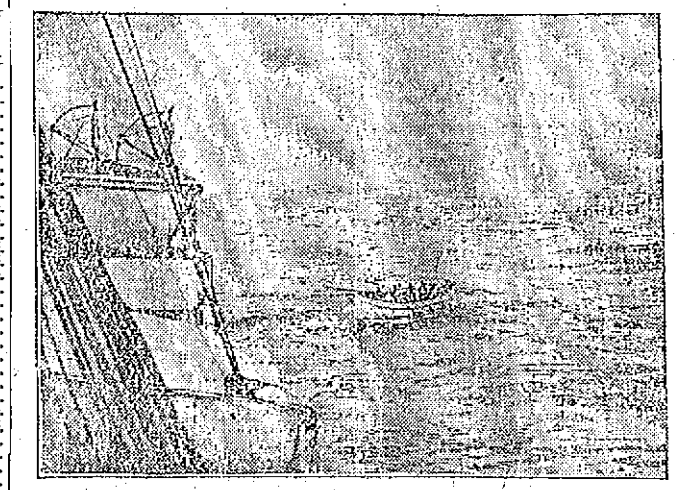

"Half a dozen passengers jumped into the ocean to swim to the boats. Capt. Rich turned to me. 'If you see a chance for your life,' he said, 'take it and jump.'

boats from the Grosser Kurfuerst almost touched the side of the Volturmo. It was soon filled with passengers, who slid down ropes. When I saw that no more would go and that all the women were off, I slid down a rope into the boat.

"The crew of the lifeboat had a terrific struggle to pull away without going about of our stern.

"The next morning the captain of the Grosser Kurfuerst put two boats out again. The sea was quiet and they took off the remaining passengers without much trouble.

Survivors of the Volturmo aboard the Grosser Kurfuerst were all men, storage passengers, crew and a few first class cabin passengers. All seemed to have recovered from their experiences. They were all, with one exception, destitute and without luggage, but they were allowed to land by orders of the immigration authorities at Washington and were taken care of by various institutions.

LIFEBOAT BRINGS PASSENGERS OF VOLTURNO TO GROSSER KURFUERST

headway all the passengers, irrespective of station, fled to the poop deck, where the women and children were protected by many lines of men, who stood nearest the flames.

"What attempts were made to quench the flames were hopelessly futile.

"During the morning the saloon and first class quarters took fire. We broke the forward windows and put the fire out there. One after another the eleven ships that stood round us during the night came in sight and offered help, but nobody could help in the heavy gale. We had to fight our own battle.

"At 2:30 in the afternoon a fierce fire broke out in number two compartment. We tried to chop through the iron deck to get at it but could not. Finally the hatchways fell in and then we poked hose and steamships through and poured water on the fire. Captain Rich was desperate. 'I don't think she'll last long now,' he said. His eyes were so badly burned he could not read the wireless messages and I read them to him.

"Of the half dozen who jumped all and lines about them and we pulled them back to the ship when we saw they could not reach the boats.

Regged to Be Saved

"Two women threw their arms around my neck, weeping, begging me to save their lives. I told them to watch the boats from the other ships and when they came close to jump for them. They leaned over the rail, but nobody could help in the heavy gale. When I tried to help them they hugged a stanchion and would not jump.

"Some of the passengers were brave and jumped into the water when the boats came close and were picked up, but some were drowned.

"One of the lifeboats was piled full and put away. It was the first boat that came to us. The second boat was from the Grosser Kurfuerst. I told the passengers not to jump unless the boat was very near and they heeded by commands, but most of them were afraid and refused to jump.

"Finally the women who begged me to save them slid down a rope and were taken in a boat. One of the

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"The Quaker Girl," with its lilting melodies and fresh, untainted comedy, will be the offering at the Opera House tonight and bids fair to establish a box office record. The theatre in this city. This popular musical comedy has become the vogue wherever seen, and everyone leaves the theatre whistling or humming the catchy, dreamy "Come to the Ball," which was sung by the great Victor Morley in his original role has scored tremendously as "Tony Carter," the charming young boulevardier, who wins the heart of the Quaker Girl. Assisting him in his fun-making are such capable artists as Harry Short, Bertie McLean, Alice Girard, Murray Stephen, Mlle. Gordon, Connie Mack, William Dinsdale, Phil J. Moore, Gladys Parsons and Adelaide Folger. The chorus is unusually large and includes some stunning young women.

ONE OF THE FEATURES OF THE PERFORMANCE IS A SPECIAL ORCHESTRA. ALL IN ALL "THE QUAKER GIRL" WILL NO DOUBT LIVE UP TO ITS ADVANCE NOTICES, WHICH IS SAYING SOMETHING IN THESE DAYS OF FLAMBOYANT AND PERSUADING PRESS AGENTS.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

The prosperity of the Merrimack Square theatre players continues unabated and the eleventh week of their stay will be opened next Monday when Ramsey Morris' great spectacular play, "The Ninety and Nine," will be given. This is the sensational New York Academy of Music success which ran for five months at that theatre to capacity audiences and is perhaps the best known of all plays which rely chiefly on scenic embellishments. The scene in which a huge locomotive, with the hero, Tom, at the throttle rushes through a sea of fire is the greatest ever produced on any stage, while the story which leads up to it is so powerful that it would carry to scores of play not half as good in other ways. It will be elaborately produced with the long members of the company in the principal roles. "The Quaker Girl," the current week's attraction, is pleasing large audiences at all performances and is shown before and between the acts will be changed today.

Aunt Sally's Advice to Beauty-Seekers

W. C. D. says: "My face is freckled this year round; nothing I try seems to help much. I really take of these horrid spots." Have you tried the treatment recommended to Minnie L. I've known this to remove very obstinate freckles.

Ellen B. asks: "What should I do for deep lines under my eyes and across my forehead?" Such lines, and all wrinkles, are best obliterated by bathing affected portions in a good astringent and tonic lotion, which strengthens and draws in the relaxed tissue. Here's a reliable formula: 1 oz. powdered exfoliate, 1 pint with hazel, mix and use daily until entirely relieved.

Minnie L.: The undue redness as well as the pimples may easily be removed by using ordinary macerated wax. Apply liberally morning and night, and after mornings with warm water. Your skin will have a beautifully white, clear, soft and velvety complexion. Macerated wax, sold by all druggists is better than cosmetics for any complexion trouble. One ounce suffices for most conditions.—Woman's Realm.

KEITH'S THEATRE

Running a close second in popular favor to "The Ninety and Nine" at the Keith theatre, this week, is Miss R. Eleanor Ball, the violinist, whose rendition of classics makes her specially welcome. Her repertoire is filled with the choicest of numbers, and her exquisite feeling for the numbers very readily wins her friends. To look upon Miss Ball is most pleasing. "The Ninety and Nine" is a dozen characters, all quite unusual in their make-up, and all excellently played. Mr. do & Hunter in the knockabout act, "The Crazy Recruit," coin laughter, while the classic trio, composed of vocalist, harpist and violinist, give pleasing harmonies. Other acts in the program are: Silent Movie, Macielian, the Kneckerbocker trio, magicians, and the Burke troupe, and the Pathe weekly. Good seats

THE WHITE SLAVERY LAW

603 Convictions and 82 Acquittals From June 1910 to September 1913

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—The activities of the United States government under the Mann white slave act have been as follows, according to figures made public by Arthur B. Farwell, of the Chicago Law and Order league, who got them from Stanley W. Finch, special commissioner for the United States department of justice:

|             |     |
|-------------|-----|
| Convictions | 603 |
| Acquittals  | 82  |

More than seventy-five of the defendants forfeited their bonds and fled from the country. The total jail and penitentiary sentences amount to 1970 years, one month and nineteen days. The figures cover the entire country, from June 25, 1910, when the United States senate passed the bill, until Aug. 31, 1913.

It is said that the number of prosecutions has decreased since Federal Judge Pollack of Kansas decided, late in September, that the Mann act was not intended to apply to the "personal escapades of men and women." Until the Diggs-Caminetti case has been disposed of by the United States supreme court United States district attorneys are given a free hand to judge for themselves in what instances to prosecute.

IN POLICE COURT

Men Were Sent to Jail for Begging Money in the Public Street

Officers Clark and Drewett appeared before Judge Enright this morning with a couple of defendants to the charge of drunkenness who have been making public nuisances of themselves along Middlesex street. Both of these men, John Breen and Jeremy Peland by name, have been begging money from passersby and abusing the public in general for the past week. Peland was sent to the state farm and Breen went to jail for a month's stay. The efforts of these two officers to rid the streets of this class of people who refuse to work and expect others to give them alms so that they may subsist, should be heartily commended.

Quite an array of Syrian society trooped into police court this morning to hear the case of Ali Mahmoud, Mohamed Ali and Hassan Ali, charged with assault and battery upon Mohamed Kadda. They were disappointed, however, for the case was continued until tomorrow morning.

NARROW ESCAPE

James Kalsano Got Between Two Cars—His Shoulder Was Hurt

James Kalsano, of 45 Lewis street, came very close to serious injury if not death, this morning while at work unloading boxes at the box shop on Tanner street.

Kalsano was one of several men who were taking boxes from the freight cars which were backed on to the siding. In some manner he was caught in between two of the cars which had started up with a jerk. Luckily he escaped with nothing more than a badly hurt shoulder. He was taken to St. John's hospital in the ambulance, where his injuries were attended to.

PROGRESSIVE LEADERS ATTEND FUNERAL OF FORMER LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR OF NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Leaders of the progressive party and many other prominent men yesterday attended the funeral of Timothy L. Woodruff, former lieutenant-governor of New York and after he left the republican party one of the heads of the progressive movement.

Among the honorary pallbearers were former Senator Chauncey M. Depew, Theodore Douglas Robinson, progressive state chairman, George W. Perkins, Frank A. Munsey, former governor, Horace White and Judge A. F. Jenks. Seven senators represented the upper house of the state legislature.

NEW TARIFF LAW

Actual Effect on Government's Revenue Will be Disclosed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—The actual effect of the new tariff law on the government's revenue will presently be disclosed by detailed comparisons and computations now being made for Secretary McAdoo. The estimates of expense for all branches of the government are almost finished. President Wilson has passed word along for a sane economy.

While the customs revenues have fluctuated too much to warrant any satisfactory estimate as to what may be expected the internal revenue receipts are running up a normal increase all along the line, so far showing 4,000,000 ahead of the same period last fiscal year.

UNCLE SAM SENDS NEW BATTLESHIPS TO MEXICAN WATERS TO FOIL HUERTA'S MOVE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—If the American battleships now in Mexican waters are not removed by Oct. 27, the day on which will expire the six months' permission granted by the Mexican congress for their presence in Mexican waters, President Huerta may find himself obliged to adopt drastic measures. The administration has already prepared for the expiration of the special six months' permission granted by the Mexican congress to the American ships. The government purposes to take from Huerta all technical ground for complaint by changing the ships in Mexican waters on Oct. 27 or a day or two thereafter. The battleships of the third division, namely, the Virginia, the Nebraska, the New Jersey and the Rhode Island will arrive in Mexican waters on that date under Rear-Admiral Boush and replace the vessels of the fourth division. Thus the letter of the Mexican law will be observed which forbids warships of any nation to remain in Mexican waters for more than thirty days.

THE VOTING LIST

Many New Names Added—The Registration Closed Yesterday

There was an interesting meeting of the democratic club of this city last evening at the close of registration, John J. Fitzgerald presiding. The registration committee reported success among those to address the gathering last evening were Senators Draper and Fisher and Messrs. Kiggins, Gilbride, Murphy, Brennan, Mullarkey and Jodoin. All spoke for strong cooperation on the part of all democrats in the struggle for victory in the approaching elections. The secretary, Joseph P. Donohue, reported a membership of 187, with the information that the club is experiencing rapid growth with the increasing interest of the live democrats of the city.

The remarks of the two senators were highly interesting to all. Both dwelt upon the wide recognition which is accorded the party principles today, and emphasized the need of a thorough knowledge of the democratic creed, with all of its important features which are expected to benefit the country throughout. The other gentlemen also had interesting words for the gathering, inspiring them to greater effort in the battle for ultimate success.

The meeting as a whole was most successful, and was a credit to the organization.

City Check List

Registration for the state election closed at city hall last night and it was announced that 150 new names had been added to the list during the afternoon and evening.

The total number on the check list this year exceeds the number last year by 66, the figures for 1912 being 14,561, while this year the number is 15,027. In view of the fact that last year was a presidential year, this number seems rather exceptional.

Ward 3 has the greatest number of voters, as shown by 1913 totals, with ward 8 second and ward 9 third. The ward having the smallest number is ward 2, with 1277.

The figures by wards follow:

BILL DENOUNCED

Former Senator Aldrich Attacks Administration Currency Bill

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Former Senator Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island last night attacked the Wilson administration's currency bill, now before congress, which he declared embodied the theories of William J. Bryan. He denounced the bill as unsound, socialist and revolutionary, characterizing it as "an endeavor to secure, by partisan legislation, the triumph of the doctrines and principles which had received the repeated condemnation of the American people at the polls."

Quoted from Wilson. He quoted from Woodrow Wilson's writings that the president, in his earlier days, had entertained beliefs contrary to the provisions of the bill. "If the house bill should be enacted into law," Mr. Aldrich asserted, "Mr. Bryan will have achieved the purpose for which he has been contending for a decade."

Mr. Aldrich's speech was delivered at the closing session of the national conference on currency reform. He made no reference to the so-called Aldrich plan for currency reform. He opposed many features of the Glass-Owen currency bill, but directed his strongest criticism at the provision dealing with the issue of government notes and providing for a central government board with supervision over the system as a whole.

"The proposals with reference to note issues," said Mr. Aldrich, "are radical and revolutionary in their character, and at variance with all the accepted canons of economic law."

"I believe it will be found, there is no substantial limitation upon the amount of notes that can be issued under the house bill except in requirements for reserve."

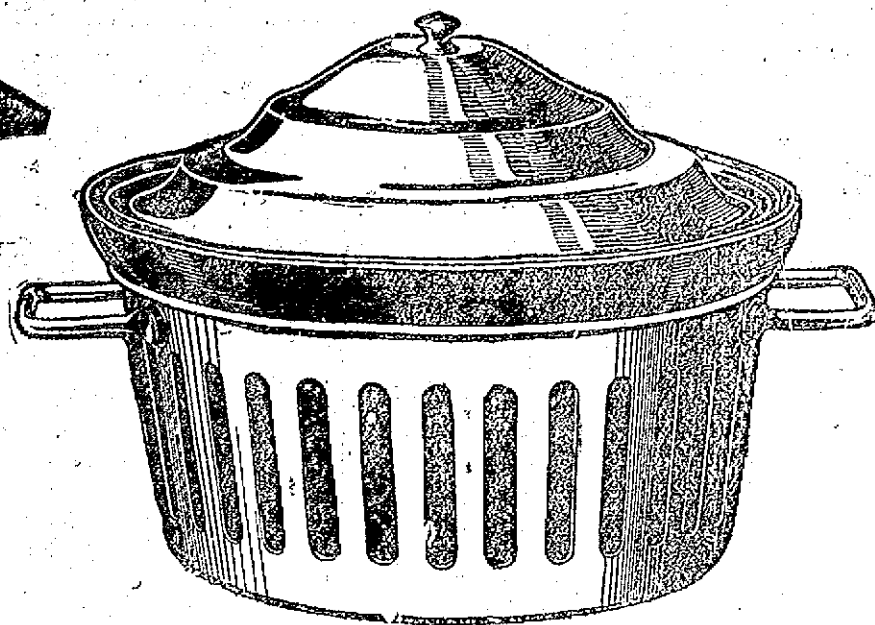

Mr. Aldrich said that "extreme pressure" was being brought to bear upon congress to enact the administration bill, and that the reason given was that adoption of the bill was necessary to fulfil promises made by the democratic party. He traced the history of the democratic party's attitude on the subject in earlier years, and quoted President Cleveland as saying that "The people of the United States are entitled to a sound and stable currency."

Boy of Six Years Found Revolver on Bureau and Pulled Trigger

Leo McCarthy, the Lowell boy who is considered the greatest all-round athlete at Boston College high, has once more donned the mole skins and will be seen in his school's lineup during the remainder of the season. Leo is captain of the track team this year.

Rube DeGroff writes us that he is once more back on his farm at Hyde Park, N. Y. and has once more taken up the rural life. Rube does practically nothing during the winter months but hike through the woods with a gun and his dog and woe be unto the rabbit which crosses the path of the Low-all right holder.

President Lynch of the National League will have active opposition to his re-election this year from August Herrmann. The powers that be in the baseball world are with Lynch, however, and it looks as though Mr. Herrmann will have a hard job to displace him. Ben Johnson asserts that Lynch is the best man that could be procured for the position.

Both the Army and Navy are showing up well in their early season games and the outlook is a fast eleven from each academy. The game between these two great rivals will be played on the Polo grounds in New York instead of at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, where the middies and cadets have fought it out in the past.

The Athletics will be given a big dinner by the mayor of Philadelphia on the night of October 23th. Six hundred guests have already been invited to the banquet of the world's champions and a gala event is promised to all who attend.

Several of the African noblemen who have recently come to this country are not at all satisfied with the game of football as played by the schools and colleges of America. One of New Zealand's football authorities asserts that the Americans do not know how to play the game. A very good test of the truth or falsity of this statement would be to have this gentleman travel back home and bring over an eleven of his All-American team. We think that no more sure talk would be forthcoming after a very few minutes' acquaintance with some of the American exponents of the game.

The Players' Federation has started war upon the major leagues, according to reports from themselves. The federation is a good thing if handled rightly, but up to date they have not accomplished anything. They will never drive the heads of organized baseball into doing what they want, but they might possibly attain their ends by using a less dictatorial system.

Billy Queal, the famous professional distance runner, will have charge of Yale cross-country team this year and big results are expected of him. Billy has already issued a call for his first string of men and the training table will be started at once.

Floyd Flemings, the star of the Indiana university eleven, has set up a record football expert's claim. Flemings has played every position on a football team since entering Indiana. He was captain of the team last year and played halfback and full. He is playing centre now after having played at guard, tackle and end.

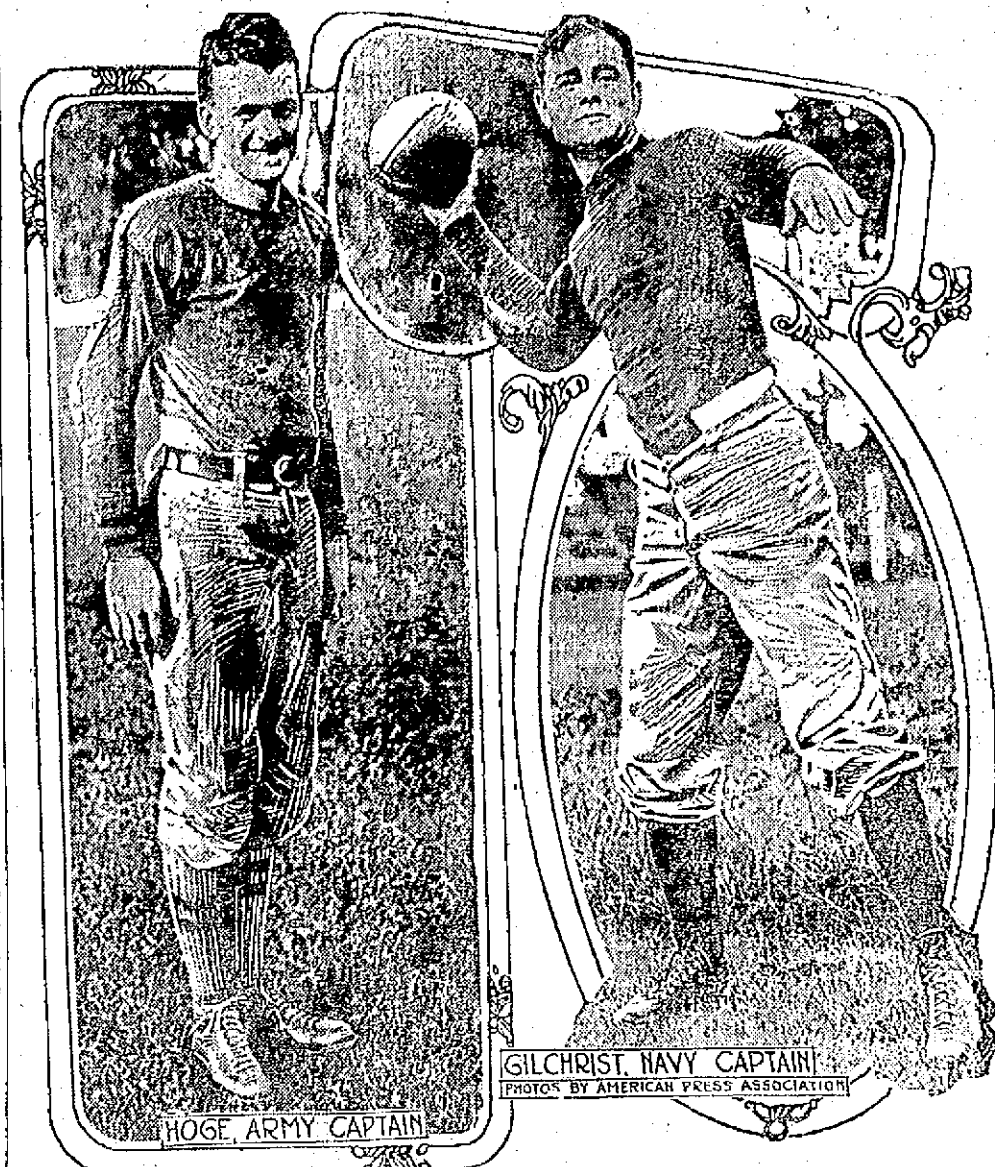

President Gaffner of the Braves has been disappointed in his search for a new ball park. No space is available near enough to the city's centre to establish the national game. The Walpole grounds will have to serve for another season at least, but extensive alterations are now under way and the fans will not know the park when they enter next season for the opening game.

The American league will meet in Chicago this year and the date of the meeting has been set for the first week in November. Last year the annual meeting was not held until well on in December, but President Comiskey and his White Sox will be on the move by that time this year.

That St. Louis series certainly did leave a bad taste in the mouth of every fan in the city. To think that two major league clubs could not play a series of seven games without squabbling like a lot of schoolboys before the deciding contest was played off is a disgrace to the game. The only proper course for the baseball commission to pursue is to place the ban upon the series next year. Each team had won three games when the quarrel arose. The logical method of deciding the series would be for the two managers to step into the ringed arena.

Al Kraenzlein is having a hard time with his German proteges. The ex-Mercersburg coach is now in Berlin and is acting as the head of all athletics indulged in by the Germans. Germany would like a place among the first three countries in the next Olympiad.

RIVAL CAPTAINS OF THE ARMY AND NAVY FOOTBALL TEAMS WHO PREPARE FOR STRIFE

One of the most exciting and interesting football games of the year will be that of the Army against the Navy. It will be held this year on Nov. 29 for the first time in New York city, taking place at the Polo grounds, recently the scene of the baseball world's series clash. Hoge, captain of the West Point team, and Gilchrist, captain of the Annapolis eleven, are looking forward to the most desperate gridiron battle ever played between the rivals.

man has fallen down under probation, and has become an occasional offender, and it has been deemed advisable to deal with him by some more rigid form of correction than probation offers, the reformatory method has been used with great success.

"The boy is brought before the juvenile or district court in Canada, and handed over to the department of neglected children, as a neglected child, and placed out to work under the supervision of an agent or inspector of the department. His earnings capacity must be guarded, as he is liable to be exploited by unprincipled employers of child labor, unless an agreement is entered into and arrangements made as to the particular amount of money he is to receive in addition to board and clothing. The money is placed to the account of the officer who has charge of the boy, and a receipt given for each sum deposited or expended, in order that the amount may be justly accounted for in the final settlement with the lad."

Mr. Chadwick outlined the work in Alberta which is being done under his supervision. It was just as important, he said, to find the particular sort of work for which a youthful criminal is naturally fitted as it was to find work at all. The farm had solved the question in many instances, but not in all. The work at the prison farm, he added, was watched by the provincial authorities and undoubtedly would be copied by the provincial jails in the future.

In conclusion, he said: "The basis of such a system should be common sense. A theory which takes only sentiment as a basis will fall down and prove unsatisfactory and most ineffectual; on the other hand, practical, sound administration has often proved that too close incarceration has brought out a certain spirit of rebellion, and outside work has developed the principles which go to make a right man, and results in the recognition of the sense of human weakness, in many instances dormant, but in the case of almost all boys it is necessary to know his weakness as it is to know his strength.

"The cost of such a scheme is comparatively small, as both boys and adults can be handled with a great deal less money under this system than any other. Outside work in any form has proved an enormous deterrent to crime, particularly in incipient stages, and properly handled will likely prove the solution to the problem of the vagabonds and adult offenders, both of juvenile and adult type."

AMATEUR BASEBALL

A city championship series is being played by the Shamrocks and the Lincolls for the title at 16 and 17 years of age. The Shamrocks recently took the second game by a score of 2 to 1 in a 14-inning game, which was largely attended. The pitching of Condon for the Shamrocks was a feature. He had 15 strike-outs to his credit. Each team has now one game to its credit. The managers and magnates will meet this evening at 7 o'clock in front of the Sun office to arrange for the third game to be played on Saturday next.

FLEET IN STORM Riding Out the Gale at Dawn Today Near Vineyard Haven

VINEYARD HAVEN, Oct. 16.—The stormbound fleet here consisting of a score of schooners, tugs and barges was still riding out the gale at dawn today, while another large fleet was anchored under the lee of Nobska and behind the Dennis shore.

Captain Oliver of the tug Paoli, hearing that his barge Oakland was still afloat off Highland light, started around Cape Cod last night in the hope of saving her. Word was received this morning that the Oakland had sunk during the night.

A fishing schooner resembling that Georgie Pearl, which was blown across the Nantucket Rips on Tuesday and from which the crew was taken by the Surf Side lifesavers was sighted off Squibnocket to the eastward of Gay Head on the south side of Martha's Vineyard early today. It was believed that the crew had returned to her from Surfside and were working their vessel along the south side of the Vineyard under the lee of the Katima shore.

The weather cleared here last evening but at dawn the storm had begun again and this forenoon it was blowing harder than ever.

RECOVER 49 BODIES

HOPE IS ABANDONED OF RESCUING MORE OF THE MINERS ENTOMBED IN THE WALES COLLIERY

CARDIFF, Wales, Oct. 15.—All hope of rescuing more of the miners entombed in the Universal colliery, where a great explosion occurred, has virtually been abandoned. The report that a party of 25 men had been found alive in one of the galleries has proved to be erroneous, but a large number of dead bodies were encountered yesterday.

No official reports have been issued, and this has caused much comment. Fire broke out anew yesterday afternoon and is still raging. There are no further signs of life in the pit.

Up to a late hour last night 49 bodies had been recovered, while 345 miners were still entombed. The shift which went into the mine yesterday numbered 331.

TO CLEAN, OR NOT TO CLEAN
That is the question. Whether it is better to use antiquated ideas of modern cleaning machinery in the renovating of garments, has been tested fully in this establishment. We do not infer that we, of late years, have employed stale methods. We haven't, but being the oldest established cleaning and dyeing house here, naturally there was a time when we had to use the "ancients."

But now what a change! A modernized plant, equal to any emergency. Such is progress!

WOMEN GOLFERS LOST TO GROTON

Players From England and Ireland Meet Representatives of U. S.

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 16.—In the third round of the women's national golf championship at the Wilmington Country club today it was England and Ireland against the United States. In three of the matches and in the fourth contest it was New York against Philadelphia. Judging by the golf that has been shown by the survivors the Americans are beginning to fear that England after numerous struggles during the last year is about to take a sporting championship to the British Isles.

One of the English players who may carry away the American title is Miss Muriel Dodd, the British and Canadian champion who today played Mrs. C. H. Vanderbeck of Philadelphia. Both have played consistent golf, but Miss Dodd's experience in championship battles was expected to be of great assistance to her.

The Irish champion, Miss Mabel Harrison, who has been winning her matches without any difficulty so far, played Miss Harriet S. Curtis of Boston, a former American champion. The Irish girl is a favorite. Miss Gladys Ravenscroft, of England, also a dangerous competitor for the American championship, met Miss Fanny Osgood of Boston, the Massachusetts champion. The strictly American match is between Miss Marion Hollins of New York, winner of the Metropolitan championship this year, and Mrs. Fuller of Philadelphia.

BOTH CONFIDENT
At tomorrow night's meeting of the Lowell A. C. Fay Wood of Fall River will tackle Frankie Mack of Boston in the main bout of 12 rounds. Wood sends word that he is in great shape and expects to defeat Mack. Last week Wood won from Jack Reed of Australia in a slashing bout at Boston. Mack is training carefully under the direction of Jimmy Gardiner, his manager, and he is confident of winning from the "Fighting Frenchman."

Mack appeared here at the opening show when he defeated Knockout Sweeney of New York. He has also a victory over Brooks and a draw with Johnny Gallant to his credit. In the semi-final Eddie Carr and Tommy McFarland will meet. In the first preliminary Mike Christos the Greek champion will swap punches with Kid Silva, a clever Portuguese boy. Walter Butler of Beachmont will meet either Frankie Kennedy or Young Tibbets in the opener.

GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 16.—John Gatherum of Blue Island, Ill., and David Wilson of Portland, Me., were first to tee off today in the contest for the western golf championship. Sixty players competed.

KNOCKED HOUSE OVER

STEAM ROLLER BECAME UNMANAGEABLE AND CRASHED THROUGH BUILDING

NEWPORT, Oct. 16.—Two men and a woman were hurt yesterday when the city's big steam roller, operated by Engineer Harry Easton, failed to answer the brakes at the top of Avraull street hill, and dashing down the steep grade, crashed into a cottage at the foot of the hill, sweeping it from its foundations.

The cottage was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. David Leonard. Mr. Leonard was coming out of the back door when the steam roller broke through the small house. He was hit on the head by a brick and sustained a severe gash. Mrs. Leonard was knocked down in the kitchen where she was working, but was not seriously hurt. The furniture in the house was wrecked. Engineer Easton, aside from being shaken up considerably, was unhurt.

FILIPINOS ARE SELECTED

PRESIDENT WILSON PLACES NATIVES IN CONTROL OF THE PHILIPPINE COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—President Wilson and Secretary Garrison yesterday selected the following Filipinos to be members of the Philippine commission: Victorino Mapa, Jaime C. De Veyra, Vincente Ilustro, Vincente Singson. Mapa will be secretary of finance and justice.

The 5th Filipino commissioner will be Rafael Palma, who since 1905 has been the only native on the commission. His resignation was not accepted.

The designation of five natives to majority control of the commission of nine, marks the first step in the policy of the Wilson administration aiming at self-government and ultimate independence for the Philippines. Governor-General Harrison recommended the native commissioners, stating that they were among the most prominent and best-educated of the Islanders.

POSTMASTER RESIGNS
HOLYOKE, Oct. 16.—Charles A. Chase, for the past eight years postmaster in this city, has forwarded his resignation to Washington, to take effect Nov. 15. He has secured a position with a pad and paper company and will begin his new duties Dec. 1.

Textile School Eleven Beaten 12-0—Fumbling Mar's Game

The Textile school's football team was beaten by two touchdowns yesterday afternoon in their game at Groton with the Academy team. Both scores came as the direct result of fumbles by the local team and occurred in the first period.

The Textile eleven showed considerable strength on several occasions during the contest their frequent fumbling, however, losing them the ball whenever an opportunity to score had been gained by consistent gains. Groton was on the defensive after scoring their last touchdown.

Andrews, Capt. Fisher and Greer played a great game for the local team, while Nash and Fuller played whirlwind football for Groton. The lineup and summary:

| GROTON                      | TEXTILE        |

KEEP BOYS OUT OF JAIL

Supt. Chadwick Says Youths' Association With Criminals Will Impel Them to Life of Crime

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 16.—Youthful criminals should not be confined in prisons, where contact with the vicious will impel them to a life of crime, but should be given work in the open, work of the kind to which they are naturally inclined, is the opinion of R. B. Chadwick, superintendent of dependent and neglected children for Alberta, Canada.

Mr. Chadwick's views were voiced before the American Prison association, at its annual meeting here, in an address yesterday entitled "Outside Work as a Preventive Measure and as a Reformatory Method." The growth of outside work in prisons, Mr. Chadwick asserted, is productive of justice toward boys and men which cannot be overestimated. The basis of such a system, he continued, should be common sense. On the one hand, he said, a system founded purely on sentiment will prove unsatisfactory and ineffectual; on the other hand, practical, sound administration has brought out that too close incarceration has often fostered a spirit of rebellion. In part, Mr. Chadwick said:

Favorable Probation
"Probation has done more work as a preventive agent in dealing with young offenders than any other scheme yet devised. Probation in dealing with the hardened type of criminal is futile and useless, as through the probation system the criminal succeeds in getting lenient treatment without proper supervision of his surroundings.

"There is a group of offenders who are not hardened criminals, but who have to be taken care of. This group forms the largest of any of the various classes that have to be dealt with under criminal law. They are not sufficiently hardened to be considered as criminals, but they have gone beyond the stage when they can be considered as possible of correction under the system of probation. When a boy or young

VERDICT FOR DEFENDANT

Shortly before three o'clock this afternoon the jury in the case of Fisher H. Pearson vs. Courier-Citizen Co., brought in a verdict for the defendant.

The final arguments in the libel suit of Fisher H. Pearson vs. the Courier-Citizen company were begun at the opening of the superior court session this morning. The evidence in this case was complete at the time of adjournment yesterday afternoon. Owing to a delay due to a consultation of attorneys in another case, court was not opened until after 10.30.

Mr. J. J. Kerwin immediately began the argument for the defense. In opening his rebuttal, Mr. Kerwin gave a brief statement of the circumstances of the case as contained in the declaration, saying that plaintiff was mentioned for appointment as judge of the police court at the time. He then read to the jury a copy of the alleged libelous editorial. There is, said the attorney for the defense, not one word in that article against the character of Mr. Pearson. What did the reading public understand? Simply that Fisher H. Pearson did not possess the necessary qualifications for the office. The article showed that plaintiff had been active politically. Consider these things, Mr. Foreman and gentlemen, and then ask yourselves is it libelous or defamatory of the man? There are four questions to be asked in the consideration of this case, first, is the language libelous; does it defame Mr. Pearson; is it a privileged article based

Edward P. Ryan Says That He Did Not Resign from T. & S. Mills

Story of Accident on the Boulevard Was Told in Superior Court.

There have been a number of charges at the Tremont & Suffolk mills under what is called "the new management," meaning the coming of a new agent. John J. Connell resigned several months ago and Mr. Connell was succeeded by M. A. Rawlinson.

Since that time resignations have been coming in thick and fast. Among those who resigned were Gen. Supt. C. R. Blake, Herbert Woods, overseer of carding; Fred O'Brien, who had charge of the dressing room, and John Vielra, yardmaster.

Edward P. Ryan, overseer of the yarn department, got through last Saturday night, but Mr. Ryan says he didn't resign. He called at The Sun office this forenoon and asked to have made public the following statement: "It is reported that I resigned my position as overseer of the yarn department at the Tremont & Suffolk mills, on Saturday, and that is not so. I did not resign. I was forced out and I want the 200 or more hands that were under me to know the truth in the matter."

A large pane of glass in the store of E. J. Houpin at the corner of Market and Jefferson streets was smashed to pieces by the wind yesterday, but fortunately no one was injured. A few weeks ago some mischievous boy threw a stone in the glass, but the small hole was patched up. However, yesterday a gale of wind caught it and reduced it to small pieces. The damage is estimated at about $10.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 15.—(4.09 p. m.)—Of the first ten votes cast to decide the guilt or innocence of Governor William Sulzer, charged with malpractice in office, at the end of his trial today eight were for conviction and two for acquittal. Fifty-seven members of the court will vote.

The judges and senators filed into the senate chamber at six minutes after three. The roll call showed that all of the 57 members of the court were present. Gov. Sulzer was not present, but was represented by his attorneys.

It was 3.10 o'clock when Judge Cullen pronounced the high court duly opened and said:

"Gentlemen, the next proceeding is the dual decision of this court on the articles presented by the assembly against the respondent."

The presiding judge then directed Clerk McCabe to read article one.

Senator Argersinger, the first member of court called, voted guilty.

Judge Willard Bartlett, next on the list, asked permission to file a written explanation of his negative vote.

EATON MURDER TRIAL RESUMED

PLYMOUTH, Oct. 15.—The state's case against Mrs. Jennie May Eaton, charged with the poisoning of her husband, Rear-Admiral Joseph Giles Eaton, was announced today by Assistant District Attorney Katzmann, who said that jealousy furnished the motive for the crime. He admitted that the case against the prisoner was mostly circumstantial but declared that the government had evidence strong enough to show that Admiral Eaton received from his wife the poison that caused his death.

The suggestion of insanity was introduced by the assistant prosecutor when he told the jury that if they should find that Mrs. Eaton killed her husband while laboring under hallucinations that constituted an irresistible impulse, the state would be satisfied with a verdict of not guilty by reason of insanity.

GREEK CHURCH

Episcopal Deputies Decide to Support the Priests of That Faith

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The house of deputies of the Protestant Episcopal church decided today that the church should extend its missionary work hereafter to immigrants and their children. Several of the leaders characterized this action as the greatest advance the church had ever made toward a broad realization of its mission.

A joint committee of clergy and laymen, appointed in 1910 to investigate this subject corresponded with immigration authorities, governors and secretaries of state and various immigration specialists. In its report the committee found that the foreign population is at present apparently confined to the north. South of a line drawn across the continent in continuation of the Ohio river, it says, the people are "scarcely aware of the presence and influence of the immigrant."

Nevertheless, the committee says, figures indicate a southward setting of the tide of immigration and the foreign problem is national rather than sectional.

"The prejudice with which the foreigner is usually regarded," says the report, "must be broken down."

The committee pointed out the need of procuring ministers from foreign races to work among their own people here. It was suggested that the board of missions offer to undertake, partly at least, the support of priests of the Greek church in the work here.

Finally the committee recommended that the rules of the church be amended so as to allow congregations of the

In a brief verbal explanation, however, he said he could see no connection between the governor's election campaign statement and his acts while a governor.

"I do not find that he is guilty of malicious and corrupt misconduct in office, and vote 'no,'" he said.

Senator Blauvelt voted guilty. "I have no hesitancy," he said, "in reaching the conclusion of the judge who just preceded me, but I believe traditions should be brushed aside when a great question of the public good confronts us. I find the respondent morally unfit to occupy the office of governor and guilty of all the acts charged in article one."

Senator Hoyan voted for conviction. He referred to the fact that the governor "had at one time introduced and later attempted to strengthen the corrupt practices act."

"I believe that William Sulzer is guilty and that in making that false campaign statement he knew he was violating the provisions of an act which he fathered."

ONLY 300 HEAR ETOR

I. W. W. LEADER SAID NOTHING INFLAMMATORY AND POLICE DID NOT INTERFERE

HAVERHILL, Oct. 15.—Only 300 men and women attended the public meeting at Leslie's hall last evening, when Joseph J. Ettor, one of the leaders of the I. W. W., spoke on the Eight-Hour law. The meeting was arranged by the district council of the I. W. W. and another meeting will be held Friday, when Ettor will speak to the people of foreign birth.

City Marshal John J. Mack detailed Patrolman William Garvin to attend the meeting, but there was no interruption, as Ettor made no inflammatory remarks. # JOHN H. MURPHY

Elected a Vice President of the Mass. State Board of Trade

Nearly 150 delegates from cities and towns throughout the state attended the annual meeting of the Massachusetts board of trade held yesterday in the Civic association building at Norwood. The meeting opened in the morning and after the election of officers and reports from the president and secretary of the state board had been read the delegates were taken on an automobile trip through the town of Norwood. The reports of the officers proved very interesting and showed the board to be in excellent condition, both financially and numerically.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, John H. Corcoran of Cambridge; Secretary, Richard L. Gay of Boston. A list of vice presidents was elected and they will be known as an executive council to the state board. Secretary John H. Murphy of the Lowell board of trade and local delegates to attend a meeting, was elected a vice president.

The ways and means committee was given power to employ a legislative agent, who will devote all of his time watching bills that would be detrimental to the state and who will notify the business men when any move is made to handicap business interests.

Gov. Eugene N. Foss was the principal speaker of the day and he delivered his first address since announcing his candidacy for governor of Massachusetts. His address was replete with attacks upon the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad system and he made it clear that his campaign would be based on the railroad issue. An enthusiastic reception was given the governor when he was introduced, but no reference was made to his candidacy by the other speakers.

President A. K. Parker of the Norwood board of trade spoke upon the business possibilities of the future and general development of business. Other members of the board spoke, among them being John J. Corcoran, who presided.

The delegates were much impressed with the town of Norwood with its extensive manufacturing plants, and the interest the people take in the general development of the town. The Norwood Civic association buildings and grounds are maintained practically by a manufacturer. A part of the building is set apart for young people and it consists of a gymnasium, swimming pool, reading room and everything to interest boys and young men. Instructive motion pictures are shown there at the expense of the association and the buildings contain a large entertainment hall and dining room. The grounds adjacent are kept in excellent condition. The meeting adjourned late yesterday afternoon, all declaring it one of the most successful ever held.

VOTE TO REMOVE SULZER

RESULT OF SECRET BALLOT SAID TO FAVOR GOVERNOR'S RE-MOVAL FROM OFFICE

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 16.—The high court of impeachment which is trying William Sulzer adjourned shortly after one o'clock to meet again at three o'clock this afternoon, at which time a start would be made on the final vote to determine the guilt or innocence of the governor.

It was reported that the court voted in its secret session this morning to remove the governor by a ballot of 42 to 14. A vote to disqualify him from ever holding another office under the state was lost, it was said.

There was not a single vote favor to disqualification, it was reported.

Every article of impeachment was voted upon separately, according to the news that leaked from the court and all of them were sustained. Those on which the governor was reported to have been held guilty are articles one, two, six and four of the impeachment charges. The three first are the "money articles," having to do with the alleged bribing of the governor's campaign statement and the misuse of campaign contributions.

Article four relates to the suppression of evidence by the governor to force the Frawley committee, including the testimony of Duncan Peck, superintendent of public works.

LIBEL CASE

on fact; was it malicious; was it true? There is no question now doubt that he was a candidate. You have heard from his own lips that he had interviews with the governor in this matter.

The attorney then briefly reviewed the testimony of Mr. Pearson, the plaintiff, mentioning the various instances in which he was a candidate for office. At one time, when running for mayor, said Mr. Kerwin, Mr. Pearson received 76 votes. He applied this to the statement in the article in question that nine out of ten men would disapprove of the appointment of Mr. Pearson. The attorney went on to say that the plaintiff had been before the people active in politics, instead of diligently applying himself to his practice to better it himself for appointment as judge. On the occasion, said the lawyer, the plaintiff was removed from an office of trust for malfeasance, neglect of duty.

Continuing, Mr. Kerwin reviewed Mr. Marden's testimony, touching upon the latter's reason for writing the article, as given by Mr. Marden himself on the stand. The article was written, said Mr. Kerwin referring to Mr. Marden's statements, because plaintiff was at the head of the "Citizens' gang" because he had been removed from office, because of certain features of the police board activity at the time of the plaintiff's serving on that board.

In conclusion, the attorney urged the jury to carefully consider the facts in the case and not to be moved by sympathy. He described the circumstances as he saw them to the jury in their decision and expressed his confidence in their justice and intelligence to return the proper verdict.

The Other Side
Mr. G. W. Pearson then began the argument for the plaintiff. In opening he referred to the statement in the assignment of Mr. Kerwin that the article, simply repeated Mr. Pearson's statement, as given by the police court. The defense has admitted this, he said, and we go further and say that the article questioned Mr. Pearson's fitness as a lawyer, as a citizen and as a man, as well as in respect to his candidacy for office. It was a statement of facts, he went on. The article, declared the attorney, suggested the promoting of some one of the associate justices as some one of the police court and the appointment of another associate justice. Mr. Pearson represented this as showing the paper to favor some one's appointment, and to offset the claim of no malice.

Referring to the account given by the defendant's counsel of the political activity of the plaintiff, Mr. Pearson stated that Mr. Kerwin had omitted mention of the fact that plaintiff, when a candidate for the state senate on one occasion, had received several thousand votes. Speaking of the candidacy for mayor of Mr. Pearson when the latter had received 76 votes, the plaintiff attorney said that it mattered nothing how many votes Mr. Pearson had received in running for political office. His political history is not being tried by you, he said, addressing the jury, but you are to say what is the usual and ordinary meaning of the words in this article. He referred to Mr. Marden as sending out 15,000 copies of the paper as messengers containing statements defamatory of the plaintiff.

Mr. Pearson spoke of the difference between slander and libel, saying that the former is spoken and the latter written. The law, he said, recognizes the fact that the libelous or written matter is more permanent and injurious than that merely spoken. The article was written and circulated throughout the city and surrounding country, among people who are many instances were not interested because they were out of the district. The lawyer inferred that it would have been an easy matter for Mr. Marden to sit down and write letters to the proper authorities expressing his views, or to have personal interviews with them. What chance, he said, has any man to fight against a newspaper in such a matter? The customary 15-minute recess was declared by the court, after which Mr. Pearson resumed his argument.

Though the circulation of the paper at that time, he said, is given as 15,000, nevertheless, said the attorney, the families of the subscribers must be considered among the readers. Thus in a few hours, such a newspaper may spread broadcast among more than 15,000 people a statement like the article in question.

Lawyer Pearson went on to describe possible effects of such an article, saying that from such a statement as that nine out of ten men would disapprove of Mr. Pearson's appointment, readers might infer various reasons for the statement, reasons that would detract from their opinion of the person about whom the article was written.

As a proof that the article in question was prompted by malice, the attorney said that the paper had selected from the testimony of Mr. Pearson—that on each occasion on which he had run for office the newspaper had hit at him, and that even on one occasion, which he had been a candidate, he had been thus criticized in an article in the paper.

After a brief statement of conditions regarding damages, in which he inferred that prospective clients and patrons reading such an article would be moved to look upon Mr. Pearson as unfit to handle the duties of a judge, he invited the jury to a thorough consideration of facts and expressed his reliance upon their competence and intelligence.

Charge to Jury
This completed the rebuttal, and Judge Chase then delivered his charge to the jury. The court first said there is a right by which people are allowed to express views and facts and that there is the equally important right of the individual. Both are recognized by law and neither may be questioned. Any false statements, said Judge Chase, reputation—hold him up to ridicule among his fellow men are defamatory and an infringement upon the man's right.

You must first consider whether or not in the mind of reasonable men the statements in the article are injurious to the plaintiff's character and an infringement of his right. If you find that they are not injurious and that tending to injure or detract from the mind of reasonable men, then there is no libel and your verdict must be for the defendant. If, however, you find otherwise, you must proceed to the consideration of other things. You must consider the article as a whole, in arriving at a verdict. In some cases, you must remember free and untrammelled criticism of a candidate for office is not only allowed, but is desired as long as it is related to, and confined to the qualifications and not to his character as a man. This you must consider. If you find that the statements are libelous, it is claimed that what was said in this article was fair comment and can only be construed as comment and fair criticism. If such is your finding, then it is privileged. But the privilege does not go beyond the expression of opinion and must not include statements of fact. If you find that it is so privileged, then your verdict must be for the defendant. If you find, on the other hand, that it is a statement of fact you must consider whether or not it is true. If, in addition, you find that the statement of fact is true, then the defendant would be entitled to your verdict unless the plaintiff go further and show that the statement was made not in good faith but was prompted by malice. The burden, you must remember, rests on the plaintiff. The plaintiff claims that evidence tends to show such ill will and malice. If you find these elements which are necessary, first that the words are defamatory, second that they were not privileged, third that they stated that which was untrue, or if it be true that it was stated in actual malice, then you must find for the plaintiff.

The court then spoke briefly on the question of damages, saying that in case of a verdict for the plaintiff, the jury must award such sum as it thinks will compensate the plaintiff for his injury. "You must," he said, "decide what is a fair and reasonable sum." He concluded in a few words explaining to the jury how they must consider the question.

Before the case was given to the jury, Mr. G. W. Pearson, plaintiff's counsel, reserved exceptions on certain points. The case then went to the jury for deliberation.

he will not be until every chimney in the city has stopped issuing volumes of smoke, which is injurious to the health and comfort of residents of the Spindle City.

Mr. Riley this morning gave a sketch of the work done or being done in this city relative to the abatement of the smoke nuisance. He said the Bay State mill in Lawrence street was being equipped with a sort of arrangement, but the work was so slow that General Supt. Whitney finally got tired of waiting, and ordered the apparatus out of the plant, and now the company is equipping its plant with a steam jet of its own manufacture, a sample of which is now in operation in one of the company's mills in Providence, R. I., with good success.

Boott Mill
"At the Boott mill," said Inspector Riley, "they are mighty slow. Some time ago plans were submitted to Agent Thomas for stokers and figures were given, but the contract is still to be awarded. Of course I understand that the equipment of the Boott mill will mean a very big expenditure, and I have no doubt that the officials of this company mean well, and will eventually install the stokers, but it seems to me they could be a little more active in their proceedings. I will see the agent at my earliest convenience and I hope by that time he will have awarded the contract."

Appleton Co.
At the Appleton Co. there are 15 Manning boilers, and they are all to be equipped with what is known as the Jones underfeed stokers. All the material has arrived at the mill and already eight of the boilers are equipped, while the workmen are working on the ninth. It will be but a short time before this plant has entirely done away with the smoke nuisance.

Merrimack Mfg. Co.
The plant of the Merrimack Mfg. Co. consumes about 110 tons of coal daily, and nevertheless it is the mill that offends the least. There are 19 boilers in the plant and 17 of them are equipped with Murphy stokers.

Massachusetts Mill
At the Massachusetts mill men are now installing new boilers and in order to keep the entire plant going, a portion of the old boiler system was recently put in operation, and consequently there is more smoke issuing from the Massachusetts chimney than before, but this will be remedied in a short time.

Henrichy
The officials of the Lowell Bleachery are doing their utmost to live within the law and consequently they are now installing their plant with a smoke consumer of their own device, and it is believed the apparatus will be very successful.

Shaw Hosiery
At the plant of the Shaw Stocking Co. in Shaw street, a steam jet of the company's own construction was recently installed and the inspector says this company comes well under the law.

Tremont & Suffolk
All but four boilers are equipped with the Jones underfeed stokers at the Tremont & Suffolk mill. Two of the others are equipped with the Climax smoke preventer, while the other two are still as they were when placed in the mill, but there is very little complaint against this company.

Lawrence Mfr. Co.
At the Lawrence hosiery the boilers are equipped with the Climax smoke preventer, and although the company is living within the law, its apparatus according to the smoke inspector is not on an equal basis with the stokers.

Nigelow Carpet Co.
At the Bigelow Carpet Co.'s plant in Market street men are now busy excavating for the new B & W 703 H boiler which will take the place of the old fashioned Climax. The stoker has arrived and is now on a car waiting its installation, which will be done in a short time.

They're a Nuisance
"There is a number of wood burning plants in this city," said Mr. Riley, "and they are a nuisance. I am now getting after them and I will insist they show better conditions as far as smoke is concerned. There is one firm which supplies power for ten different firms, and the boilers are kept going with wood shavings which are blown into the boilers by means of a large fan. The result is that the chimney issues large volumes of thick black smoke, and this will have to be remedied."

CHARLES SUMNER BIRD

Has Plan to Bring About a Better Understanding Between Employers and Workers

Charles Sumner Bird, the progressive candidate for governor, in a speech delivered in Taunton, this noon, advocated the establishment, in connection with each industry, of joint boards or "internal courts" made up of representatives of the employers and workers, as a method to secure industrial peace.

Misunderstandings and ignorance of actual conditions on the part of both employers and employees frequently breed strikes and lockouts, Mr. Bird declared.

Joint boards or "internal courts," as he termed them, would tend to bring the employer and employee closer together, and eliminate misunderstandings. They will tend also to wipe out the distrust and hatred that frequently exist and cause industrial wars, he maintained.

Mr. Bird declared, among other things, that he believes that "the people of Massachusetts, and most all of the laborers, stand shoulder to shoulder against the destructive doctrines of eternal war between employer and employee—the mistaken wasteful hate of the I. W. W."

Mr. Bird spoke as one of forty years' business experience and the employer of thousands of men, whose mills have never known a strike.

He said in part: "I would say to every workingman that I believe the time will come when a place for representatives of labor shall be made on every board of directors."

"I would say that I propose at once that the state of Massachusetts, which has done little effective work for industrial peace, shall give each corporation a certain time in which to establish a board or court of its own, which should have for its members representatives of both employer and worker."

Absentee Ownership
"I would say that in this way only

could the employer learn of the needs of his men, and the worker learn of the needs of his employers—I would tell the workers that half of the misunderstandings which often result in violence and disorder come from absentee ownership, and because the officers of a firm or corporation which manage the industry have allowed themselves to withdraw too far from acquaintance with their workers. I know that the internal courts in each industry would bring them back to that acquaintance. I would say to the workers that often they misunderstand the employers, and the needs and perplexities of the industry, and I would say that meeting the employer in an internal court, where each side was represented would settle a hundred small questions, and prevent many a wasteful quarrel and needless strike.

Lead the Way

"I would say to workers that with their help behind this plan, we in Massachusetts could lead the way for the rest of the nation toward industrial peace."

"Before this campaign is over, I shall address the employers of labor in this state, and say how they can co-operate with labor. And if the employers who are responsible for the conduct of industry did not co-operate voluntarily by the establishment of internal boards representing both employer and laborers to regulate their relations, I would have the state compel the installation of joint boards in order to protect the mutual interest of all concerned."

Local Progressives Busy

The local progressives have planned several rallies for this evening and the progressive city committee is very busy. The rallies will be held at Highland hall in Branch street, and Odd Fellows hall, Bridge street, both at 8 o'clock. The speakers will include Rev. Robert W. Drawbridge, of Pepperell; Charles H. Melville, of Lowell, candidate for district attorney; Dr. C. B. Livingston, candidate for senator, and Cecil P. Dodge and John Fox, candidates for representative in the 14th and 17th districts, respectively.

The progressive publicity bureau is working overtime these days and is sending out literature galore. An appeal for contributions to aid the progressive campaign was made in a letter which Matthew Rice, chairman of the progressive state committee, sent to several thousand progressives today.

In Need of Money

Some people labor under the impression that the progressives haven't any more use for money than has their illustrious leader for mint juleps, but it isn't so. In his letter Mr. Rice states that victory is already within reach of the progressives, but that the party is badly in need of money to continue the "most wonderful educational campaign ever made by a political party."

PRINCE'S PROTEST DENIED

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—The German crown prince recently sent a letter of protest to Imperial Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg against permission being granted to Prince Ernest August of Cumberland, the husband of the crown prince's only sister, to occupy the throne of the Duchy of Brunswick without express renunciation of his pretensions to the throne of Hanover. This protest has proved unsuccessful for the imperial chancellor today sent a long reply to the crown prince in which he justified the position taken up by the Prussian government.

EATON MURDER CASE

commonwealth expects the jury to render a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree, if the jury believes the prosecution has maintained its contention.

Subsequently the prosecutor added the qualification that a verdict of guilty must be returned "if the act is shown to have been committed by a rational being."

Mr. Katzmann indicated that jealousy was the motive for the alleged crime. He recounted the incidents of the admiral's courtship and his marriage to Mrs. Eaton and said that Admiral Eaton became a father to Mrs. Eaton's daughters, Julia and Dorothy. He told of unsettled life in the house, told, caused, he said, by June's love affairs.

Jealousy Was Motive

"This resulted," he said, "in Mrs. Eaton becoming irascible and developing the temperament which she brought her to her present pass. One form of this temperament was jealousy, unfounded jealousy."

Mr. Katzmann declared that Mrs. Eaton had repeatedly discharged servants and rebuked neighbors for alleged manifestations of affection by them for the admiral. For years, he said, Mrs. Eaton had tried continually to have her husband adjudged insane and committed to an asylum. The foundation for these attempts, he said, was Mrs. Eaton's accusation in the summer of 1908 that her husband had poisoned a child adopted by the couple the previous spring. According to Mr. Katzmann, Mrs. Eaton wrote to Prof. Whitney, the Harvard medical school chemist to whom the child's stomach was sent for examination.

"I rely on your finding poison in the child's stomach to have my husband declared insane," The official report, however, showed death to be due to natural causes.

The death of the child was followed, Mr. Katzmann said, by constant charges by Mrs. Eaton and by June that the admiral was dabbling in poison.

FINDS HER UNCLE

Girl Unable to Speak English Went to the Wrong Unionville

UNIONVILLE, Mich., Oct. 16.—A light haired, blue eyed girl of 17 who cannot speak a word of English arrived in this village last night. In her hand she carried a paper on which was written:

"For Gab Manyall, P. O. Box 26, Unionville, North America." Men who can speak half a dozen European languages tried to converse with her but were unable to make her understand. The paper also gave the information that her name is Maryia Canack, that she is a Slav and is on her way to the home of an uncle whom she never has seen. It is thought the girl was sent here by New York immigration officials who directed her to the wrong Unionville, there being several places of that name in several states, including Maine and Massachusetts.

UNCLE IS LOCATED
UNIONVILLE, Conn., Oct. 16.—It was Unionville, Conn., to which Maryia Canack, the young Slav girl now at Unionville, Mich., was bound when she landed in this country recently with a card bearing the address "For Gab Manyall, P. O. Box 26, Unionville, Ns. America."

It was learned that there was a Gabriel Manyall with postoffice box 261 living here. He stated, on being told of the circumstances that the girl was his niece and he and his family had been expecting her.

On that visit Mrs. Eaton told him that the admiral had been ill for some time. She told him also of being awakened by the coldness of his body. Dist. Atty. Barker sought to show, by questioning Dr. Osgood as to the condition of the bed, that a person could not have lain beside the admiral without great discomfort.

On his examination of the body, the medical examiner said he was unable to give any definite cause of death. The organs were turned over to Prof. Whitney for analysis.

PARCEL POST A GREAT BOON

For the Farmer, Says
First Assistant Postmaster General

Postmasters Association
Elects Maj. Crowley to
Executive Committee

At the 12th annual meeting of the New England Postmasters' association held at the American House, Boston, yesterday, Postmaster Robert J. Crowley of this city was elected to the executive committee and spoke at the banquet in the evening.

First Assistant Postmaster-General Daniel G. Roper of Washington was the guest of the postmasters and asked them to induce the farmers to use the parcel post to a greater extent in marketing their produce.

"I need not dwell on the extent to which the city merchant and the mail order house are using the parcel post," said he. "It was expected that they would do so, but the farmers must be alive to the new conditions as well and take advantage of this opportunity. No single reform ever undertaken in connection with the postal service of the United States presents to our people such economic possibilities as does the parcel post."

"The small city merchant whose trade does not justify his employing delivery wagons or the sending of packages to suburban points should be greatly benefited; the village tradesman should be able to increase his sales to his patrons on rural routes; the farmer should find in these changes the opportunity he has been seeking to develop a more profitable market for his garden products by shipping direct to the consumer; and the consumer by this direct dealing can at the same time save some of the profits of distributing agents and materially reduce the cost of living."

Hits High Prices

"It furnishes our people with an instrument of wrenching loose and toppling over the superstructure of high prices that has been built up by private monopolies in control of all facilities for the transportation of commodities. In the establishment of the parcel post the people have placed the government on trial as a common carrier of merchandise. Ours is the task and we must make good. Everything is in our favor; the universal extent of our service, lower rates, a workable plan and simple regulations."

"I am particularly appealed to by the opportunity which exists for the exchange of goods between the city and rural districts. The farmer should find it comparatively easy to secure a ready market for his products. How fortunate would be the city resident who could receive, at stated intervals, fresh vegetables, a hamper by parcel post containing, for instance, two pounds of butter, two dozen of eggs, two spring chickens, two quarts of strawberries, two quarts of green peas, a half-peck of spinach, a supply of onions, radishes, lettuce and rhubarb. Such packages would be taken from the farmer at his own door, carried anywhere (within 150 miles) and laid at the door of a customer, for 24 cents. I foresee the development of an enormous amount of business of this kind."

PULPIT ORATOR

Fr. Reardon of Baltimore Will Speak at Sacred Heart Sunday

At 6.30 P. M. next Sunday evening, special services in connection with the Catholic Church Extension society will be held at the Sacred Heart church, and the music, sermon, etc. will be appropriate to the occasion. The regular church and sanctuary choir have been rehearsing a special musical program, and the sermon will be preached by Rev. Fr. Reardon of Baltimore, Md., a noted pulpit orator.

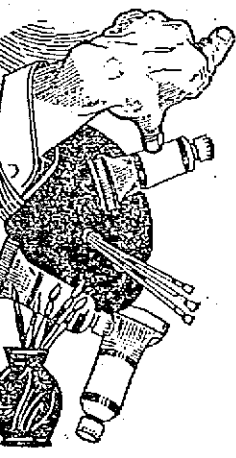

The work of church extension is now receiving a great deal of attention in the Catholic church. Cardinals, bishops and the clergy generally are urging wider co-operation between the various churches throughout the country and the results of late years have been highly satisfactory. Many of the Catholic societies are also interested in church extension and have set apart funds for its furtherance. The eloquent preacher who is to speak next Sunday at the Sacred Heart church is thoroughly familiar with what is being done and the announcement of his name will without doubt fill the church to its capacity.

The musical program will be the following: Organ prelude ..... John J. Kelly. Hymn, "Act of Contrition," Composed by Sisters of Notre Dame, Sanctuary Choir. Credo, "Jesus Del Vici," Mrs. Philip Mooney, John McElahan, Geo. Kirwin. Ave Verum Male Chorus. Tantum Ergo ..... Est Church quartet. Mrs. Mooney, Miss Bessie Finnegan, John McElahan, Geo. Kirwin. Adoremus ..... Gregorian. Laudate ..... Gregorian. Full Choir. March.

The program is under the direction of Organist J. J. Kelly.

Cannot be Shaken From the New England League Circuit—New Cities May Enter

What teams will compose the New England league's 1914 circuit is the question now being thought over by fans and magnates alike. Up to date it is an open question although the fact is generally conceded that the eight clubs which represented eight cities this past season will not all of them be with next year.

Lowell, however, can ill afford to be dropped by the powers that be. This city has been one of the mainstays of New England league baseball since the beginning of "the little old league" as it is often called. Lowell fans need fear but little the rumor that a club will not represent this city next season or any other season.

Manchester has been looked upon with longing eyes by most of the managers who are up against a losing proposition with their clubs. Brockton, New Bedford and Fall River have all attempted to get hold of the new ball yard erected at Manchester this year but without success.

New Bedford is possibly the poorest town for baseball in the circuit. At one of the games late last season between the home club and Brockton but thirty adults paid admission to the park. This seems incredible to the fans in a live sporting city but is the truth nevertheless. New Bedford, in fact did not support the recent pennant winner in 1910 as well as the majority of baseball towns turn out for the leader of the second division.

Brockton and Fall River are practically as bad. Three cities which could be reached with only a moderate expense account and which would patronize the game as it should be would put the New England league on a firm basis. The next thing to do, however, is to discover these cities.

Manchester, as previously stated, would make the greatest addition to the league of any of the cities under consideration. Lewiston has been much talked of as a harbor for a shipwrecked New England outfit. At this time it does not look probable that either of these cities will be found in the circuit although either or both may be.

In Manchester the fans want organized ball. The baseball park which was completed this summer is owned by the Amesbury corporation and was used this summer by the baseball teams of their employees. Saturday was practically the only day that the park was in use and if the company feels that their teams should have the use of the grounds arrangements could be easily made whereby the two leagues would not interfere. Such an arrangement may be made but it is certain that a second rate team will never find a permanent berth in Manchester.

Salem and Fitchburg have also been discussed many times as possibilities for New England league ball but the wise men around the circuit seldom give either of these villages more than a passing thought. Salem is the better town of the two and perhaps will find somebody soft enough to be gold bricked into taking a team there but Fitchburg couldn't support a $1200 salary limit club.

It is difficult to say just now whether the personal of the New England league will meet with any radical changes or not but rumors are flying around thick and fast that some changes are bound to occur.

CLEVER ENTERTAINMENT

PRESENTED BY WOMEN MEMBERS OF PASTOR'S BIBLE CLASS OF GORHAM ST. METHODIST CHURCH

A two-act sketch entitled "The Village Wedding" was presented to a large audience last night at the Gorham street Methodist church by the women members of the pastor's Bible class.

Despite the inclement weather the audience was large and all present greatly enjoyed the play and showed their appreciation by the applause accorded the performers. The parts of the play were sustained by the following: Mrs. Fred Pickles, Mrs. Joel Scoble, Mrs. Sarah Potter, Mrs. Edgar Brooks, Mrs. Thomas Gardner, Mrs. Wood, Mrs. James Greenwood, Mrs. Walter Killeby, Mrs. Jacob Norris, Mrs. John Crab, Mrs. Sam Asquith, Mrs. Sarah Branch, Mrs. Mary Barton, Mrs. Carrie Heading, Mrs. N. W. Matthews, Sr., Mrs. Grace Thompson, Mrs. Fred Brooks, Mrs. Robert Cudworth, Miss Sarah A. Aveyard, Mrs. Edward Clegg, Mrs. John

Laycock, Mrs. Joseph Sutcliffe, Mrs. J. H. Marsh, Mrs. James Howarth. The flower girls were Misses E. Irene Potter and Alice Loraine Lettich.

Mrs. William Ingham was directress of the production. The committee having charge of the entertainment was as follows: John H. Marsh, chairman; Mrs. Ingham, Mrs. Potter, Mrs. Scoble, Mrs. Feindel, Mr. Pickles and Mr. Turner. The Imperial orchestra was directed by James Smith, and the pianist of the evening was Albert Ingham. The proceeds of the entertainment went to the Sunday school fund.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE

A free lecture on Christian Science will be given at 3 p. m. Sunday, Oct. 15, at Colonial hall, Palmer street, by Judge Clifford P. Smith, C. S. ## OVERCOATS

Did you say that you were tired of sameness in Overcoats? That you feel as though you would like to wear something a bit original this season? When you inspect our Fall Overcoat display, it won't take you long to see that we have anticipated you. Even if your ideas are extreme, you will find combinations of cut and color surpassing them.

From the extreme, the styles and patterns graduate to the staidly Conservatives—in a range of effects and prices to meet the requirements of any man who dresses in good taste.

As to value—well—the product of our workshops located on the premises has always stood for Honest Clothing Dealing. Our reputation and guarantee is back of every garment.

CANDIDATE WALSH SPOKE

Scored Action of Public Service Board in Approving $67,000,000 New Haven Bond Issue

BLACKSTONE, Oct. 16.—The Hon. David I. Walsh was given a great reception here when he spoke for the election of the democratic ticket.

He took for his topic the approval of the New Haven bond issue by the public service commission, and said that the action of the commission was an argument for the giving of veto power over the acts of the commission to the governor.

Mr. Walsh said in part: "A speedy illustration of the desirability of legislation such as is advocated in the democratic state platform, giving the governor veto power over orders of the public service commission, was furnished by the action of the public service commission in approving the $67,000,000 bond issue of the New Haven road."

"Our platform holds, and I hold, that upon all these important questions of public policy the public should be able to hold accountable some elected public servant. The public service commission not only is not accountable to the public, but I shall not, when elected governor, be able to hold a majority of its members accountable to me before the first day of July, 1916, as it will not be until that date that the terms of a majority of the present board expire."

"Regardless of the merits of this decision, the fact that the commission failed to reach a unanimous agreement on the approval of this order, and particularly the fact that the dissenting opinion was rendered by a member of the commission of high standing in the legal profession and who enjoys to an unusual degree the confidence of the public, will immediately raise doubts in the minds of a large proportion of the public as to the propriety and legality of the commission's order; this will tend at the very outset of the commission's career to lessen that public confidence which is absolutely necessary under our present system of public supervision and control of the public service corporations."

"Everybody knows that the constitution gives the governor the power to veto the most trivial acts of legislation. It seems much more important that the governor should have the power to veto decisions of a board not directly answerable to the public upon great matters of public policy."

"This particular decision embodies a very important policy, and it is a surprise to many to find that the legislature has given such power to this commission. If an act of the legislature contained these provisions, every one would agree that the chief executive would be confronted with a serious problem as to whether he should exercise the veto power."

"The democratic platform demanding that he be given such a veto power over decisions of public service commissions is in line with the policy of making some elected public servant directly responsible to the people for every important policy adopted in their name."

2 BITTEN BY MAD DOG

LITTLE CANINE ALSO ATTACKED NINE DOGS, A GOAT AND COOP OF CHICKENS IN SALEM

SALEM, Oct. 15.—The scare caused by a dog which ran mad through the streets of the city last Saturday was intensified last night when it was found that the animal was suffering from rabies.

Two persons, Denis J. Barry, a police officer, and Mrs. Mary Corrigan, were scratched or bitten. They will be sent to the Pasteur Institute for treatment. Whether this will be at the expense of the town or of the owner of the dog has not been decided by the health authorities.

"They have in quarantine at present nine dogs, a goat and a coop of chickens which were bitten by the mad animal."

Are you letting thin impure blood destroy your daughter's health? Most growing girls have impoverished blood. Do not take it for granted that your daughter is free from it. Even now she may be in the first stages of bloodlessness and it is for your watchfulness and care to prevent a lifetime of misery for her.

Thin, impure blood is the cause of your daughter's pallor. It keeps her frail, languid, irritable and nervous. As it becomes more chronic it will cause shortness of breath and palpitation of the heart. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills correct these alarming symptoms by furnishing an abundant supply of rich, red blood. This quickly brings color to the pale cheeks and lips, brightness to the eye and strength and vigor to the whole system. Get a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from your druggist today, give them a fair trial and you will agree that they have no equal as a tonic for girls in their teens.

"Two helpful booklets, 'Building Up the Blood' and 'Plain Talks to Women' will be mailed free on request."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or will be sent by mail, postpaid, at 50 cents per box or six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

PLOT TO KILL DIAZ

Declared That Mexican Conspirators Plan Assassination in Havana

HAVANA, Oct. 16.—General Felix Diaz, who is now on his way from Europe to Mexico, is believed to be in danger of assassination on his arrival at Havana. The Cuban government has received information that a band of Mexican conspirators are planning to kill General Diaz, who will reach here on Friday evening or Saturday morning on the steamer Corovado. The secret police express hope of arresting the conspirators, and the government has issued orders that the utmost precautions be taken to insure the safety of General Diaz.

UNDER HAMMER

Real Honest and Truly Houses Sold for $15 in South Boston

BOSTON, Oct. 16.—What should you think if someone told you that you could buy a regular size enough house in the city of Boston for $15. Not a shanty or a shack, but a regular house, with hot and cold water, furnace, and all that? The real thing. Better ones for $50. Several still better for $70. Nothing in the lot over $100. "It can't be done," you say. But it can be done and without a make-up, too. It was done yesterday. Real houses, until recently occupied by real human beings, were sold at the above prices by the city, and John C. Kiley, the city's real estate expert, acted as auctioneer.

He had hard work selling them, too. Even at these prices. There's a reason. Here it is. Every purchaser of a house had to buy it off with him. Not exactly that, but figuratively speaking.

The city is about to build a new police station in South Boston to take the place of station 6 on Broadway. It has purchased the lot of land bounded by D. Athens and West Third streets on which to build the new station. The lot was already covered with buildings. Some pretty good ones, too. They had to be sold. Mr. Kiley tried private sale. On account of the fact that the buyer must remove his purchase in 30 days they went slowly. An auction was decided upon. It occurred yesterday.

The bids ranged from 50 cents to $30. Think of buying half a dollar for a regular city the-story building in a good location! Nothing doing on the 50-cent bids, though; the auctioneer couldn't hear any bid under $15. Still, you had to start them on something. Here are some sample bargains.

Three-story building, 235-235 Athens street, went to Pomeroy & Co. for $15. The next house, 234, went to Julia Parish for $20, who also purchased 227 D street for $10, and 195 West Third street for $15.

William Wood bought the wooden block 260-273 D street for wood, it is said. Price, $50.

The New England Construction company bought 275 D street for $55. This company also bought a nice house on Fenchurch place for $60.

All the houses went "as is." This includes name plates. Michael Corrigan, a G. A. R. veteran, found this out. He has lived for years at 227 D street, and they sold the house over his head.

He had to move lively to save the name plate which has been on the front door for more years than he can remember. Mr. Kiley was just selling the house.

"Sixty dollars," said someone. "Does that include the door plate?" asked someone else.

"Sure," said the auctioneer. "If it's on the door of the house when the hammer falls."

"What's that?" said Mr. Corrigan, grabbing a screw driver and a hammer. "Give me that door plate!"

"Give him time," yelled the crowd. While the auctioneer obligingly did, meanwhile admonishing him to move lively or the house would be sold and moved away before the doorplate came off. Just as the last screw came out someone bid $70.

"Going, going, gone. Sold for $70, without the doorplate," said the auctioneer, and the sale was over.

PLAY A SUCCESS

Miss Pauline Cummings' "Getting Rid of the Duke" a Hit

"Getting Rid of the Duke" a three act comedy written by Miss Pauline Cummings, a well known young girl of this city, was presented at Colonial hall last night under the auspices of the Miss Bachelor Girls before a fair sized and appreciative audience.

The scene of the play opens at the summer home of Senator Matherson, father of Rose, the American beauty who wins the love of Jack Howard and the Duke of De Bligny. The young girl favors neither of the men at first but the Senator and Mrs. Matherson are anxious for her to marry the Duke. However, Jack, a friend named Tom Hastings, plan to prove the duke a coward and after several exciting incidents they succeed and Jack comes out a real hero, and in the last act he wins the heart and hand of the pretty girl.

Much praise should be given Miss Cummings for the success of the play and all who witnessed the delightful presentation last night expressed much favorable commendation to the author and members of the cast.

Misses Hazel Chamberlain and Mildred Tinker entertained between the acts by appearing in several specially dances. Both of the young ladies won

MANY EXCELLENT SUGGESTIONS

If the city of Lowell were to adopt and carry out all the suggestions offered at the meeting of the directors of the board of trade, within a year, we would be entitled to a motto more descriptive of energy than even our present "city of opportunity." Practically all the ideas aired for the betterment of conditions were commendable and feasible. Many of them were even essential. But what they outlined an program over which we must talk and shake our heads and differ as to what is best to be done for five years or so before we get down to business. To approve of something and then wait for a supernatural agency to get it done seems to be the Lowell way of improving. The blame is not on the shoulders of our officials either—at least not the whole of it. The public attitude is so changeable and minutely critical that the authorities simply reflect the popular tendencies. But to come back to the subject: Most of the improvements advocated at the meeting of the board of trade directors are sure to come sooner or later. They are all necessary even though a few of them are not timely.

No one will deny that we are sorely in need of the public hall advocated by Mayor O'Donnell. Its necessity is allowed by all. If it could be readily agreed as to a suitable location we would have had one worthy of the city long before now. The same holds true of the contagious hospital, which was discussed also. Mr. Harvey Greene made a very good suggestion with regard to the planting of trees throughout the city to replace those which are removed or otherwise destroyed. His remarks on the billboards of the city were also to the point and were an echo of the views of the leading cities of the country as to this nuisance.

Another excellent suggestion made by Mr. Greene and approved by the mayor was the removal of the homey fences that line the canal banks and offend the eye unnecessarily. The canals are beautiful in themselves and should not be shut out from the public gaze. If fences are necessary, a far more suitable type should be selected than the high board fences that are now standing.

Mr. Patrick O'Hearn drew attention to a coming necessity in the eliminating of traffic congestion on Central street. Whether this is done by the extension of Palmer street or by some other method, it will have to be attended to in the future. It is an intolerable condition that the blocking of one street should cripple business and yet this is what the blocking of Central street would do. If the city planning board takes up this problem, as was suggested, there is no reason why it should be entirely ornamental as some asserted when its membership was selected by the municipal council. Many other reforms were agitated, all deserving of public notice. Whether these things come now or many years hence it is a good sign to see civic bodies such as our board of trade agitating them and putting them intelligently before the public.

ADVICE TO GARDNER

It seems as though the republican organs in the state are far more anxious to give timely advice to their candidate for governor than to approve of his ill advised adherence to personal hobbies that can spell nothing for him but defeat. One of these hobbies, and one that real friends of Mr. Gardner do not emphasize over strongly, is the restriction of immigration. It is not, of course, a state question and Mr. Gardner apparently takes it up to hide his unfamiliarity with state issues. All seem to agree, therefore, that he trends on very dangerous ground in shouting his views on this delicate matter to the people of Massachusetts. The Salem News admires what it calls his courage but refers to him as follows: "He can overdo the business, and thus transform what within legitimate limits is an advantage to his cause into a decided drawback."

The Springfield Union also warns Mr. Gardner about the danger of indulging to much in fervent desires to walloping somebody. "The slug-em-over-the-top style of campaign does not go particularly well in Massachusetts," it says, "and Candidate Gardner would better drop it." The New Bedford Standard also says of this fighting propensity of the republican candidate: "A campaign of walloping is usually regarded while it is going on as lively and spicy and all that sort of thing; but afterward there is not much in the remembrance to think about with satisfaction." Somehow it looks as though Mr. Gardner is striving valiantly to live down a former pink tea reputation and he is going to the other extreme in so doing. But the restriction of immigration plank is very redolent of the views of some near social and political affiliations. It will take a great many walloping speeches to make the public forget that.

Comments on the campaign of Gardner or Bird only serve to throw into grateful relief the policies followed by their democratic opponent. Mr. Walsh is giving an example of dignity and adherence to principle that will serve as a standard of the best in campaigning. His stand is especially admirable when we consider the very great temptation there must be to attack the glaringly weak points in the armor of his opponents.

MRS. PANKHURST'S VISIT

The notorious Mrs. Pankhurst—whose occupation is quite generally known the world over—is now on her way to pay us a visit, and this latest from the immigration authorities seems to augur that the lady may have some little trouble in landing here and may in fact be refused the privilege. As this is liable to prove a technical barrier only and as she may land under bonds for a time, even if ordered deported, as some other undesirable have done, some who expected to hear her need weep. The recent declaration of her reason for visiting us, and some other considerations, make a review of the matter interesting whether our sympathies are with Mrs. Pankhurst or with those who oppose her.

Mrs. Pankhurst is about to visit us not because she wishes to study our institutions or even our woman suffrage situation, but frankly to collect money for the English militant cause. In other words she comes here to collect money that will be largely used in future in the cause of lawlessness. Some of it will purchase powder and heresies, some will be used in paying for lecture platforms where declarations against long and country as represented by high officials, will be made. Some will be used in efforts to release militant women who have shouted and fought themselves into jail. Mrs. Pankhurst may not be undesirable in the strict sense but her mission is anarchistic in its last analysis. Her courage and devotion, even though misguided, may win her popular sympathy, but her words and works will not. There is much in her avowed purpose which seems to justify her deportation.

There are many indications, however, that Mrs. Pankhurst's hopes of reaping a rich harvest of American dollars may be doomed to failure. She is not likely to get much suffrage support here and her very practical arrangements symbolize a desire for greedy monopoly which takes away some of the romance. Her terms are said to be a guarantee of $1500 for each lecture, 10 per cent. of the receipts up to $10,000 and 50 per cent. for all above that sum. If her hopes are strong we may expect a strong fight at Ellis Island. Hope she doesn't bring her arson squad.

SAFETY AT SEA

Just as the great number of serious railroad accidents in recent years have given rise to a cry of "safety first," the burning of the Volturno will strengthen the agitation begun at the time of the Titanic wreck for safety at sea. Coincident with the terrible story of last week comes the report of the special committee appointed by Secretary Redfield for the use of the American delegation to an international conference on safety at sea, to be held in London in November next. It is, therefore, evident that the question is one that is receiving attention throughout the world.

The saving of so many of the passengers and crew of the Volturno is first of all due to the wonderful wireless which brought ten or eleven ocean steamers to the side of the doomed vessel in time to save all had the sea been calm. Had these steamers been equipped with more effective means of throwing life lines, the story might have been different. But in a terrible crisis where the lives of hundreds hung by such a slender thread it is hardly fair to condemn where there is so much to approve. The old story of human heroism was told over again and the cowardice of the few but throws into higher relief the noble example of the many. Henceforth it is safe to assume that whenever the call for help comes out of space, every captain within reasonable distance will turn from his course and speed with all possible haste to the side of the distressed vessel.

JUVENILE LABOR

In view of the fact that a great many are displeased with the recent law which threw many minors out of employment, it would be interesting to know what percentage of those who so worked were obliged to do so by absolute necessity. Recently a New York commission studying child labor in the mills took one hundred cases indiscriminately and found that only ten of them were actually obliged to work in order to make a living. If this were true in all instances the law would more readily commend itself, but it isn't true in Lowell. All must feel that the mills are far from a desirable place for young children, but it is better that a few should work there than that many should want. It seems to be a choice between two evils, at least under present conditions here.

Seen and Heard

Lillian Russell in a toast on "Youth" at a luncheon in Pittsburgh scattered epigrams like pearls.

"In the end," she said, "in our struggle to keep young, we are all almost defeated. The seeds of our defeat is marked with a white stone."

"We fight against time, but 'time' fights 24 hours a day."

"More people fail in the attempt to become centenarians than in any other business."—Pittsburgh Post.

THE SAND MARTINS

I passed an island cliff precipitate; From tiny caves peeped many a sandy mart.

In each a mother's martin sat elate, And of the news delivered her snail's pace.

Fantastic chatter! hasty, glad and gay, Whence the meaning was not all to say.

"Gossip, how wags the world with you today?"

"Gossip, the world wags well, the world wags well."

And harkening I was sure their little wings, Were the bird-talk, and discourse was made.

Concerning her sea-brights and tropic song, For a clear salubrity the tune conveyed.

And visions of the sky as of a cup, Had fallen down light on pagan Pharaoh's head.

And quivering air-waves trembling up and up, And blank stones faces marvelously

When should the young be fledged, and with them he Where, one day, drops down in crimson light.

Fortunate countries of the frey, Swam with blue diamonds all the sultry night—

And the immortal moon takes turns with them.

When should they pass again by that red land?

Where lovely mirage works a broader-crested hem To fringe with phantom-palms a robe of sand?

When should they dip their breasts again and play In shimmering azure pools, clear as the air?

Where, every-winged flamingoes flash all day, Stalking amid the lotus blossoms fair?

Then, over padded tamarinds, bear their flight, White casillas blossom on the zone of culms.

And so betake them to a south sea-bright, To gossip in the crowns of coco palm.

Whose roots are in the spray. Oh, happy they! Some down, white-winged they might chaff to find

A frigate standing in to make more fair The loneliness unaltered of mankind.

A frigate came to water; nuts would fall, And humble feet would climb the flower-dusted strand.

While northern winds would ring, and there would fall The martins would desire the cool north wind.

And all would be as it had been before; As if at eve there would be news to tell.

Who passed should hear them chant it o'er and o'er: "Gossip, how wags the world?" "Well, gossip, well!"

—Jean Ingelow.

A certain Irishman living in New York owns a number of tenement houses on the East Side in the Jewish district. One day one of his tenants, a little wizened-up Jew, called at his office to make a complaint.

"I tell you, Mister Murphy, I am going to leave your flat."

"Sure, now," answered Murphy, "and what is the trouble?"

"Well, I tell you dere's too many rats in dat flat. Vy, only yesterday I kills eight!"—Everybody's.

Murphy jumped to his feet in anger, and yelled forth: "An' his rats, is it, that is bothering you? You have tiddy rats alone! What do you want for eight dollars a month? Hunting privileges?"—Everybody's.

Robert C. McCreedy, a life guard of Long Branch, recounted some of his experiences as he paced the sunny, wind-swept beach.

"No, no," he said, "the average person you rescue doesn't give you a check for a million or offer you a partnership in his firm. The average person you rescue is like Smith."

"A Philadelphia watchman saved Smith's life one winter night when he fell off the Race street viaduct. The watchman plunged into the icy water after him and only got him out after 10 minutes' terrible work amid the floating ice. But Smith took the thing as a matter of course. I'd a done all right alone if I'd a been able to swim," he said.

"A month or so later the watchman asked Smith to help him move a packing case."

"Well, said Smith, 'I ain't no horse.' 'I done more for you,' said the watchman, 'one night when you were drowning.'"

"Yes," said Smith, hotly, 'and you're no gentleman to cast it up to me now.'—New York World.

CHILDREN HATE OIL, CALOMEL AND PILLS

"California Syrup of Figs" Best For Tender Stomach, Liver, Bowels.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

THE STRUGGLE

Banker and Tradesman: The aftermath of the Paterson strike continues to furnish a desory record of what and who caused to both sides in the struggle. A manufacturer recently killed himself on account of his losses, and the postmaster now reports that numbers of men who were forced to leave town in search of work have abandoned their families to charity or starvation. The leaders of the I. W. W., who engineered and forced the strike to desperation have gone to fresh fields and pastures new to found more trouble. There is the notorious and the golden rule, and the penny for the wives and children of the followers.

MERRIMACK RIVER
Lynn News: Undoubtedly the congressional committee which visited the river and the cities on its banks last week were impressed with the importance and possibility of the river. It is no such petty stream as some of those on which large sums of money have been extravagantly expended in the recent past. It is a real river, which in Europe would have been developed decades ago. Pressure will be brought to bear, in the days to come, upon congress in order to get the aid of the federal government.

COMPLICATION OF WOMAN'S ILLS

Yields to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Athens, Texas.—"I had a complication of diseases, some of them of long standing. I wrote to you for advice and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and some other things that you suggested. I must confess that I am much better in every way and have been relieved of some of the worst troubles. My neighbors say I look younger now than I did fifteen years ago."—Mrs. SARAH R. WHITLEY, Athens, Texas, R. F. D. No. 3, Box 92.

We know of no other medicine which has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women, or received so many genuine testimonials, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In nearly every community you will find women who have been restored to health by this famous medicine. Almost every woman you meet knows of the great good it has been doing among suffering women for the past 50 years.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing hundreds of thousands of letters from women seeking health, in which many openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, many of them state that it has saved them from surgical operations.

We challenge anyone to name even one other medicine that has been so successful in relieving woman's suffering as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

BELTED OVERCOATS

Novelty ideas in great coats, mannish cut for boys, girls and young women.

Great boxy coats, made upon the same stylish lines as the smart overcoats for young men—and it is surprising how many of these man tailored coats we have already sold to girls and young women—made with Shawl or Notch collars, double or single breasted, with belt all round or with half belt and with patch or regular pockets. The materials Chinchillas and Elysians in blue, castor, light gray or slate and soft faced Scotch fabrics.

The whole new stock is here and it is the most striking exhibition of absolutely new and correct models in overcoats for boys, girls and young women that we ever have made.

which is necessary for the work which must be done. This is a Massachusetts measure and should have solid Massachusetts support. It also should have Massachusetts money put into it as a guarantee of our earnestness in the matter. A navigable Merrimack would be a most valuable asset to the state. Agitation, therefore, should be redoubled.

FOOD PRODUCTION
Newport News: Our grain exports are not what they used to be. Our exports of food animals and provisions have almost ceased. Our exports of manufactured goods have been increasing with extraordinary rapidity. Capital and labor are going into mechanical arts rather than farming, and apparently the former pay better than the latter, even at the present high prices of food. Our population is large and growing fast. Food production is not keeping pace with it, and prices of food are not yet high enough to tempt farmers to increase production. We have survived our era of cheap land. What is in store for us? The conditions of Europe?

PROTECTION AND PROSPERITY
Fall River Globe: It is a favorite argument employed by the defenders of stagnation to point to the growth of the industries of that country. Its wonderful development and great prosperity and claim all this as the fruits of protection. The fallacy of this claim is obvious when one gives the matter a little reflection. It ignores the marvelous strides that have been made in the realms of science, invention and discovery which have been the most potent agencies in making these things possible.

WALSH'S CHANCES
Boston Herald: Candor compels the acknowledgment that Walsh's chances now appear pretty bright. He has behind him a democracy as harmonious and homogeneous as it ever is. No conspicuous democrat has bolted his nomination. No democratic newspaper is advising its readers not to support him. He has already been a candidate before the people. His strength has been ascertained. And the vote that he will get on Nov. 4 may accordingly be gauged with approximate accuracy.

FIRST SNOW
Boston Post: The snow fall the other day was one of the earliest in the record of the weather bureau and while there was not much accumulation in the city, there was sufficient in the suburbs to make the difference in the rank of "real" storms. There is a tradition among rural residents that the day of the month on which the first snow storm occurs indicates the number of storms which will follow during the winter; and if this theory is correct, we may look for 14 instances of Tuesday's weather. Probably it's as nearly correct as most of the other weather prophecies.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

Supervisory Deputy Grand Regent John T. Friary, of Roslindale held an official inspection of industry council. R. A. at the regular meeting in Odd Fellows building last night. A large number of members was on hand and the meeting was presided over by Regent Michael J. Sullivan. During the evening a musical was served and the following musical entertainment was given: Songs, John S. Jackson, recitation, Harold Hennessy, song, John Baxter; ventriloquist exhibition, Leonard Galloway; song, Thomas Dowd; recitation, James E. Gorman. Interesting remarks were offered by many prominent members and officials of the order.

Among the guests were Brother Peck of Troy, N. Y., and a number of visiting brothers from Highland and Lowell councils.

Post 135, G. A. R.
Arrangements are being made by the members of Post 135, G. A. R., for an inspection of the post to be held Wednesday evening, Oct. 23, at 8 o'clock. A meeting was held last night at which taps were sounded for Corp. William H. Durr. After the business was transacted the following entertainment was given: Piano solo, Miss Helen Riley;

ALL WERE SAVED

Steamer With 25 Passengers and Crew Went on Rocks

EUREKA, Cal., Oct. 16.—A wireless message received here last night from the steamer Mercedes, bound from San Francisco to Astoria and Portland, with 25 passengers and a cargo of lumber, said the vessel had gone on the rocks off Point Gorda. All of the passengers and most of the crew were sent ashore in small boats.

THE MEXICAN SITUATION

UNITED STATES PLAYING THE WAITING GAME—PRES. WILSON DOES NOT EXPECT REPLY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—The Mexican situation remained unchanged today and administration officials agreed generally in the view that Huerta would make no reply to President Wilson's latest note. The seriousness of the situation, however, was unaltered and the attitude of the Washington government was still a waiting one with the United States in the attitude of a close observer.

THE FAMILY COUGH MEDICINE
In every home there should be a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, ready for immediate use when any member of the family contracts a cold or a cough. Prompt use will stop the spread of sickness. A. S. S. of Mason, Mich., writes: "My whole family depends upon Dr. King's New Discovery as the best cough and cold medicine in the world. Two 50c bottles cured me of pneumonia." Thousands of other families have been equally benefited and depend entirely upon Dr. King's New Discovery to cure their coughs, colds, throat and lung troubles. Every dose helps. ## CAUSED DEATH night, so a prediction of fair weather on Tuesday with moderate westerly winds was issued.

The prediction was not two hours old before Capt. Cod and Nantucket were being swept by a northeaster typical of early winter rather than mid-autumn for the gale brought with it rain, sleet and snow and on Cape Cod a stiff sand blast. The storm was apparently created by the weather experts on Tuesday forenoon as well out to sea but the center was placed somewhere between Cape Cod and Sable island. Under ordinary conditions the storm would have moved along to the northeast with the wind backing to the northwest on the New England coast as the center neared the Grand Banks. The weather actually cleared a bit on Cape Cod and the wind backed to a trifle west of north late Tuesday but at midnight it was again northeast and the weather became thick. It became apparent on Wednesday that the storm center, instead of being off Nova Scotia was not many miles from Cape Cod and that it was practically stationary. The storm at 8 a. m. today was still off the cape with the lowest barometer, 29.56, at Nantucket and the highest wind velocity, a mile a minute, at Highland light.

The storm broke on the full of the so-called hunters moon, with a high course of tide but the local waterfront was not seriously affected as the wind in Boston during the storm was a trifle west of north. On Cape Cod, however, and especially inside of the bay on the Sandwich and Barnstable shores the tide today was very high.

kept constantly on the jump following certain member of the progressive party who posted large signs on the city's streets announcing a rally. The superintendent of the city's police department and armed with a hammer and a screw driver and other tools, he undertook what the progressives did. However, as Mr. Kernan has no ill feeling against the new party, he carried all the signs as well as the tacks to his office at city hall and he wishes it known that the members of the party will receive the same upon application at the park department's office at city hall without any extra charge, for as he told the writer this morning they may need the signs again, but he issues a statement that they are not to be posted on public property or the law will take its course.

New Band Stand
Architect Harry Prescott Graves will tomorrow night submit his plans on the new bandstand to be erected on the South common to Commissioner Cummings of the public buildings department and Park Commissioner Carr. These two men as well as the superintendent of parks and public buildings will meet in the park department office to examine the said plans. The same will either be accepted or rejected, and if they are accepted, bids will be called for in a couple of days. Mr. Cummings stated this morning there will be a proviso in the contract which will empower the city officials had been issued at the city clerk's to stop the work at any time if the weather becomes too cold, and also to extend the time limit in the event of work being stopped.

Mayor Invited
Mayor James E. O'Donnell today received an invitation from the General Adelbert Ames camp, No. 19, U. S. W. V. I. to attend a reception which will be held at their quarters in Memorial hall on the evening of Oct. 27. The mayor is listed among the speakers.

Hunters Busy
At noon today 525 hunters' licenses had been issued at the city clerk's office. The hunting season was opened on the first of the month, and since that time many are taking daily walks about the surrounding woods, where squirrels are much in evidence. Last year 625 licenses were given out and it is believed the number this year will be much larger, for there are many who are waiting for real game hunting before taking out their permits.

Permits Issued
The United States Construction Co. was today granted a permit for the erection of a one-story wooden building at the corner of Westford and Coral streets. This building will be 65 feet by 22 feet and will contain two stories. Its cost will be $3500. The P. Dempsey estate was given a permit for an addition and general alterations to a dwelling house in the rear of 126 Salem street at a cost of $1500.

Men Were Sent to Jail for Begging Money in the Public Street

Officers Clark and Driscoll appeared before Judge Enright this morning with a couple of defendants in the charge of drunkenness who have been making public nuisances of themselves along Middlesex street. Both of these men, John Green and Jeremy Peland by name, have been begging money from passersby and abusing the public in general for the past week. Peland was sent to the state farm and Green went to jail for a month's stay. The efforts of these two officers to rid the streets of this class of people who refuse to work and expect others to give them alms so that they may subsist, should be heartily commended.

Quite an array of Syrian society troopers into police court this morning to hear the case of Ali Mahmoud, Mohamed Ali and Hassan Ali, charged with assault and battery upon Mohamed Kadda. They were disappointed, however, for the case was continued until tomorrow morning.

He asserted that the defendant had reimbursed him for damage and that he was perfectly satisfied to have the case dropped. Judge Enright ordered the defendant to pay all the costs of the trial and that the case be placed on file.

Joseph C. Rogner, charged with the non-support of his wife, had his case continued until next Saturday. James Fox, a young man with only one leg, was fined $8 for his second offense for over indulgence and given a month's probation in which to pay it. John J. Mahoney and Annie Boyle, alias Wells, were also charged $8 for the same offense.

Must Return Piano

The piano case, or rather the case having to do with a piano, which has been before the local police court, founded its final vote today. The case started with John Davis being charged with retaining stolen property on file with the understanding that the piano be returned at once to the rightful owner, the divorced wife of one Jacobs. Thus ended the tune of the court.

NEW TARIFF LAW

Actual Effect on Government's Revenue Will be Disclosed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The actual effect of the new tariff law on the government's revenue will presently be disclosed by detailed comparisons and computations now being made for Secretary McAdoo. The estimates of Secretary McAdoo for the government's revenue for all branches of the government are almost finished. President Wilson has passed word along for a sane economy.

While the customs revenues have fluctuated too much to warrant any satisfactory estimate as to what may be expected the internal revenue receipts are running up a normal increase all along the line, so far showing 4,000,000 ahead of the same period last fiscal year.

VOLTURNO OFFICER SAYS SCENE ON BOARD LINER WAS TERRIBLE—WOMEN SHRIEKED AND PRAYED TO BE SAVED

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—A Volturmo officer named Dieselmann who was rescued from the steamer by the Grosser Kurfuerst, in part yesterday gave a graphic account of the fire which destroyed the ill-fated liner. In an interview he said:

"The scene aboard the Volturmo after the fire had been discovered was terrible. Women shrieked and prayed, men rushed about in impotent frenzy when they realized that the raging storm made escape from the vessel an impossibility. As the flames licked their way from the hold to the steering compartment their progress was accompanied by the screams of hundreds of occupants. Gradually as the fire made greater and greater headway all the passengers, irrespective of station, fled to the poop deck, where the women and children were protected by many lines of men, who stood next to the flames.

"What attempts were made to quench the flames were hopelessly futile.

"During the morning the saloon and first class quarters took fire. We broke the forward windows and put the fire out there. One after another the eleven compartments stood round us during the night in sight and offered help, but nobody could help in the heavy rain. We had to fight our own battle.

"At 2:30 in the afternoon a fierce fire broke out in number two compartment. We tried to chop through the iron deck to get at it but could not. Finally the watchmen fell in and then we poked holes and steam pipes through and poured water on the fire. Captain Inch was desperate. 'I don't think she'll last long now,' he said. His eyes were so badly burned he could not read the wireless messages and I read them to him.

Fire Broke Out

"When the fire broke out in No. 2 compartment the smoke rolled in black clouds into the bunkers and the coal supply was cut off so the engine fires died down. We used our last ounce of steam to keep the wireless plant working. When the steam was all gone we kept the wireless going by a hand generator.

"At nine o'clock a night great flames were shooting out of the saloon lighting the dark water. The passengers were crowding the rails all. It looked as if the end had come.

When the boats of the Kronland put out to try to reach us, Captain Inch tried to shoot a lifeline to them, but it fell short. Just after this the ship was rocked by a terrific explosion on the bridge.

"Half a dozen passengers jumped into the ocean to swim to the boats. Capt. Inch turned to me. 'If you see a chance for your life,' he said, 'take it and jump.'

"Of the half dozen who jumped all had lines about them and we pulled them back to the ship when we saw they could not reach the boats.

Becked to Be Saved

"Two women threw their arms around my neck, weeping, begging me to save their lives. I told them to watch the boats from the other ship and when they came close to jump for them. They leaned over the rail, looked down at the dark water and were afraid. When I tried to help them they hugged a stanchion and would not jump.

"Some of the passengers were brave and jumped into the water when the boats came close and were picked up, but some were drowned.

"One of the lifeboats was piled full and put away. It was the first boat that came to us. The second boat was from the Grosser Kurfuerst. I told the passengers not to jump unless the boat was very near and they heeded by commands, but most of them were afraid and refused to jump.

"Finally the women who begged me to save them slid down a rope and were taken in a boat. One of the boats from the Grosser Kurfuerst almost touched the side of the Volturmo. It was soon filled with passengers, who slid down ropes. When I saw that no more would go and that all the women were off, I slid down a rope into the boat.

"The crew of the lifeboat had a terrific struggle to pull away without going ashore of our own accord.

"The next morning the captain of the Grosser Kurfuerst put two boats out again. The sea was quieter and they took off the remaining passengers without much trouble."

Survivors of the Volturmo aboard the Grosser Kurfuerst were all men, stowage passengers, crew and a lone first class cabin passenger. All seemed to have recovered from their experiences. They were all, with one exception, destitute and without baggage, but they were allowed to land by order of the immigration authorities at Washington and were taken care of by various institutions.

SHOT HIS WIFE NARROW ESCAPE

New Bedford Man Then Committed Suicide by Shooting

NEW BEDFORD, Oct. 16.—Louis Yachon shot his wife, perhaps fatally, and killed himself. The couple had been living apart and the shooting was the result of an ineffectual attempt at reconciliation by the husband.

James Kalsano Got Between Two Cars—His Shoulder Was Hurt

James Kalsano, of 48 Lewis street, came very close to serious injury, if not death, this morning while at work unloading boxes at the box shop on Tanner street.

Kalsano was one of several men who were taking boxes from the freight cars, which were backed on to the siding. In some manner he was caught in between two of the cars which had started up with a jerk. Luckily he escaped with nothing more than a badly hurt shoulder. He was taken to St. John's hospital in the ambulance, where his injuries were attended to.

FREIGHT RATES

Inter-State Commerce Commission to Issue Definite Order

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Failure of the railroads operating out of Boston to conform to the conclusions of the interstate commerce commission acting as a board of arbitration in the import traffic case probably will result in the near future in a definite order putting the commission's conclusions into effect.

The Boston roads now are charging lower rates on import traffic to points west than lines out of New York. It has been held by the commission and sustained by the supreme court that disadvantages of geographical location cannot be reduced by the making of lower freight rates from the more distant point. It practically is immaterial to the commission whether the Boston rates are raised to a parity with the New York rates or the New York rates are lowered to the existing scale except that if the New York rates are lowered it would necessitate the readjustment of the west bound import rates out of Philadelphia and Baltimore. David O. Ives, traffic manager of the Boston chamber of commerce has been in Washington for two days endeavoring to obtain some concession that would be favorable to Boston. The likelihood is that the only way out of the situation is that the commission will issue an order in the New York case making effective its decision as to the whole import question and its action will affect almost the entire west bound import traffic of the country.

PROGRESSIVE LEADERS ATTEND FUNERAL OF FORMER LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR OF NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Leaders of the progressive party and many other prominent men yesterday attended the funeral of Timothy L. Woodruff, former lieutenant-governor of New York and after he left the republican party one of the heads of the progressive movement.

Among the honorary pallbearers were former Senator Chauncey M. Depew, Theodore Douglas Robinson, progressive state chairman; George W. Perkins, Frank A. Munsey, former governor Horace White and Judge A. V. Jenks. Seven senators represented the upper house of the state legislature.

TOWERS CORNER PAVING

Employees of the street department started work on repaving Towers corner yesterday morning. It will be remembered the corner, which includes portions of Central, Gorham and Middlesex streets, was macadamized some time ago and shortly afterward a water main burst in that section. The road was torn up, the surface of the street was torn up and the street was left in a very bad condition. The work of repaving was started yesterday and, weather permitting, it will be but a short time before the road is put in fine condition again. The department will also start work on repaving Lawrence street from Watson to the bridge of the Wampanoag canal within a few days.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

The Quaker Girl with its lifting melodies and fresh, untainted comedy, will be offering at the Opera House tonight and bids fair to establish a box office record for the theatre in this city. This popular musical comedy has become the vogue wherever seen, and everyone leaves the theatre whistling or humming the catchy, dreamy "Come to the Quaker Girl" or "Enduring Love the fresh beauties of the little Quaker girl, Victor Morley in his original role has scored tremendously as Tony Chute, the Quaker boy, and as the Quaker girl, who wins the heart of the Quaker girl. Assisting him in his fun-making are such capable artists as Harry Short, Bernice McCabe, Dixie Clark, Murray Stuber, Mrs. Corday, Cora Mack, William Blaisdell, Phil J. Moore, Gladys Parsons and Adelaide Folger. The chorus is unusually large and includes some of the most beautiful young women. One of the features of the performance is a special orchestra. All in all "The Quaker Girl" will no doubt live up to its name and make the theatre saying something in these days of flamboyant and persiflage press agents.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

The prosperity of the Merrimack Square theatre players continues unabated and the eleventh week of their stay will be opened next Monday when Ramsay Stuber, great, spectacular play, "The Ninety and Nine," will be given. This is the sensational New York Academy of Music success which ran five months, and the theatre is to capacity audience and is perhaps the best known of all plays which rely chiefly on scenic embellishments. The scene in which a huge locomotive, with the engine in the foreground, is pushed through a set of fire is the greatest ever produced on any stage, while the story which leads up to it is so powerful that it would carry to success a play not half as good in other ways. It will be elaborately produced with the leading members of the company in the principal roles. The orchestra is playing large audiences at all performances this week and as usual the pictures which are shown before and between the acts will be changed today.

KEITH'S THEATRE

Running a close second in popular favor to "The Movies," at the B. F. Keith theatre, this week, is Miss Ren Eleanore, the violinist, whose rendition of classics makes her specially welcome. Her repertoire is filled with the choicest of the numbers very readily wins her friends. To look upon Miss Ren is most pleasing. "The Movies," Hamish McLaurin's comedy, based upon the fact for motion pictures, is proving a gladsome surprise. Sketched into it are a dozen characters all quite unusual in their make-up, and all excellent players. "The Movies" and "The Ninety and Nine," give the program are: Silent Morn, a magician; the Ruckelbauer trio, singers; Arminia & Burke, transience performers; and the Pathe variety, good tests for the remaining performances of the week may be obtained at the box office, Phone 28.

THE KASINO

You've heard Miner's orchestra, and you know its worth. But do you know that it is made up of Lowell musicians and that it is the best in the city? It ranks among the best in the city and it is the best in the city. The Kasino has engaged this orchestra permanently for Saturday matinees and evenings and Sunday nights.

MARKET BECAME HEAVY

AFTER INDECISIVE MOVEMENT AT OPENING—SEVERAL FEATURES REACHED NEW LOW MARKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—After an indecisive movement at the opening today the stock market became heavy and in some instances prices fell below the previous low marks for the present decline. Offerings were not heavy and the market apparently was weakened more by the absence of demand than by direct pressure. Can common and preferred opened with gains of a point each. Reading, Southern Pacific and Amalgamated were fractionally higher, while first prices of Union Pacific and Steel showed small losses. In the first few minutes the list turned downward, definitely. Westinghouse and Union Pac lost two points and Union Pacific, Uar Copper and Woolworth one. Atchison at 9-1-4 and Canadian Pacific at 22 1/4-5, reached new low marks.

Holders of stocks were impressed during the morning by the continued absence of banking support but reports that banks and trust companies were unloading holdings because of dissatisfaction with financial, political and business conditions met with denials. Further cuts in Steel Products, the Mexican situation and conjecture as to the effect of currency legislation had weight in depressing sentiment. Although trading became dull after the first hour the market showed no ability to recover with any spirit. Weakness of minor issues indicated that weak spots were being sought out to force genuine liquidation.

General liquidation was confined largely to the forenoon and speculation thereafter was attended by a rise in the level of prices. The upward movement was slow, however, and failed to reduce declines greatly. Further concessions in call and time money rates had a sustaining influence.

The market closed weak. A selling movement unsettled the list in the last hour. Low prices for the movement were secured in all directions. U. P. broke three points and some high priced specialties as much as five points. The bear party was in full sway and experienced little difficulty in shaking out quantities of long stocks.

THE VOTING LIST

Many New Names Added—The Registration Closed Yesterday

There was an interesting meeting of the Democratic club of this city last evening at the close of registration, John J. Fitzgerald presiding. The registration committee reported success. Among those to address the gathering last evening were Senators Draper and Fisher and Messrs. Higgins, Gilbride, Murphy, Brennan, Mullarkey and Jodoin. All spoke for strong cooperation on the part of all democrats in the struggle for victory in the approaching elections. The secretary, Joseph P. Donohue, reported a membership of 151, with the information that the club is experiencing rapid growth with the increasing interest of the live democrats of the city.

The remarks of the two senators were highly interesting to all. Both dwelt upon the wide recognition which is accorded the party principles today, and emphasized the need of a thorough knowledge of the democratic creed, with all of its important features which are expected to benefit the country throughout. The other gentlemen also had interesting words for the gathering, inspiring them to greater effort in the battle for ultimate success.

The meeting as a whole was most successful, and was a credit to the organization.

City Check List

Registration for the state election closed at city hall last night and it was announced that 150 new names had been added to the list during the afternoon and evening.

The total number on the check list this year exceeds the number last year by 65, the figures for 1912 being 14,561, while this year the number is 15,027. In view of the fact that last year was a presidential year, this number seems rather exceptional.

Ward 3 has the greatest number of voters, as shown by 1913 totals, with ward 8 second and ward 9 third. The ward having the smallest number is ward 2, with 1277.

BILL DENOUNCED

Former Senator Aldrich Attacks Administration Currency Bill

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Former Senator Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island last night attacked the Wilson administration's currency bill, now before congress, which he declared embodied the theories of William J. Bryan. He denounced the bill as unsound, socialistic and revolutionary, characterizing it as "an endeavor to secure, by partisan legislation, the triumph of the doctrines and principles which had received the repeated condemnation of the American people at the polls."

Quotes From Wilson

He quoted from Woodrow Wilson's writings that the president, in his earlier days, had entertained beliefs contrary to the provisions of the bill.

"If the house bill should be enacted into law," Mr. Aldrich asserted, "Mr. Bryan will have achieved the purpose for which he has been contending for a decade."

Mr. Aldrich's speech was delivered at the closing session of the national conference on currency reform. He made no reference to the so-called Aldrich plan for currency reform. He opposed many features of the Glass-Owen currency bill, but directed his strongest criticism at the provision dealing with the issue of government notes and providing for a central government board with supervision over the system as a whole.

"The proposals with reference to note issues," said Mr. Aldrich, "are radical and revolutionary in their character, and at variance with all the accepted canons of economic law."

Mr. Aldrich said that "extreme pressure" was being brought to bear upon congress to enact the administration bill, and that the reason given was that adoption of the bill was necessary to fulfil promises made by the democratic party. He traced the history of the democratic party's attitude on the subject in earlier years, and quoted President Cleveland as saying that "The people of the United States are entitled to a sound and stable currency."

CHILD ENDS LIFE

Boy of Six Years Found Revolver on Bureau and Pulled Trigger

MIDDLEBORO, Oct. 16.—A revolver left lying on a bureau proved to be the death of six year old Albert Oryer. While the child was playing in the bedroom of his home yesterday he caught sight of the weapon. Snatching it up he pulled the trigger and the bullet entered his body, causing instant death.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Arthur P. Miner to the Washington Savings Institution, dated August 10, 1911, and recorded in Middlesex North District Registry of Deeds, Book 491, page 383, and for breach of the conditions therein contained, said Washington Savings Institution will sell at public auction on the premises on Wednesday, the twelfth day of November, 1913, at three o'clock in the afternoon, all the right, title and interest in said premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, being a certain lot of land with the buildings thereon situated in the northern village of Chelmsford, and bounded and described as follows: Beginning at the northwesterly corner of the premises at a stone bound at the intersection of the easterly line of the State Highway, now called Princeton street, with the southerly side of Mt. Pleasant street, 32-100 feet to the lot No. 3 on plan herinafter referred to; thence at an angle of 92° 36' westerly along said last named land, one hundred and thirty-two feet to said Princeton street, thence north by said Mt. Pleasant street, eighty-two and 16-100 feet to the point of beginning. Containing eight thousand six hundred and thirty-two (8632) square feet, more or less. Being lot number four (4) on a plan of land in North Chelmsford belonging to Henry O. Miner et al., surveyed September 20, 1905, and lots three, four and five, computed July 3, 1910, by Smith & Brooks, C. E.

Being part of the same premises conveyed to Arthur P. Miner, by deed of Henry O. Miner, dated January 21, 1911, and recorded with Middlesex North District Registry of Deeds, Book 491, page 127.

Premises will be sold subject to any and all unpaid taxes. Purchaser will be required to deposit with or procure to the auctioneer the sum of $300 when property is struck off. Other terms made known at time and place of sale.

Washington Savings Institution, Mortgagee.
Thomas H. Murphy, Treasurer.

Under authority of Section 40, Chapter 330, of the Acts of 1905, I, Jennie Craig, Lowell, Mass., do hereby give notice that I have received application to the Lowell Institution for Savings, Lowell, Mass., for a duplicate deposit book of Account No. 107517, standing in my name, and which said deposit book is lost at and place of which said account is held.

John Souza, pitcher for the Young Lions baseball team, was presented a gold watch by his fellow members of the club, as a recognition of his good work during the season.

There was a large attendance at the service conducted at the Calvary Baptist church last night. The choir under the direction of Prof. Stout, rendered excellent music and the subject discussed by the pastor was "Being Fit for Heaven."

A small sized blaze on Watson avenue called out the fire department last night at 5:40 o'clock, box 152 being the alarm that sounded. No damage was done to the building, the lace curtain in one of the rooms being the only article destroyed by the flames.

The Lowell Orchestral society is soon to revive its road work, and the first rehearsal will be held Sunday afternoon at the republican headquarters, 35 Central street, under the direction of C. M. Cushman. All amateur musicians, who are able to read music are invited to join this popular organization.

A harvest supper and entertainment were held last evening at the Collinsville mission. Both were heartily enjoyed by a large number. The Dickinson Concert Co. rendered a fine program as follows: Quartet selection, tenor solo, William F. Dean; alto solo, John Hansen; reading, Fred Timmins; bass solo, Frank E. Langer; tenor solo, Edwin W. Kilpatrick; bass solo, Fred Timmins.

The monthly meeting of the G. A. Y. club was held last night at the home of Miss Helen Heames, 1229 Westford street. Refreshments were served and the following entertainment was carried out with Miss Edna Brundin at the piano: Songs, "My Girl," by Daniel Wrenn; "You Slide Me Love You," by Walter King; duet, by Mae Eldridge and James Grant; violin solo by Ellen Woods; "Last Night Was the End of the World," by John Daly; parody on the popular songs by Gladys Merrill.

Mrs. Frank Cheney was the host of the Sam Walter Fess club at the meeting of the latter organization last evening, and her home, 97 Gates street, was the scene of the event. The subject of the evening was "Beauty Spots."

of America. Mrs. Albert French gave a description of her journey to the White mountains. Mrs. Farrington's paper dealt with her vacation trip to Hanover, N. H., telling of the numerous interesting points in that vicinity. Mrs. Fernald described a stay in Portland, Me., while Mrs. Adams told of the attractions of Nantucket. There was a piano solo by Miss Ethel Adams. Refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed. The members of the club will next meet at the home of Mrs. Macdonald, 731 Broadway.

The members of Lowell council, Knights of Columbus, held the first of a series of dancing parties in the spacious ball at their rooms last evening. It was a most decided success, financially and socially. The house committee was in charge of the event. Deagan's orchestra furnished excellent music in a brief concert and for the dancing. The dance order contained numbers, each of which was thoroughly enjoyed. The party broke up at the midnight hour after a delightful evening. This is but the first of a series of such parties which are bound to please all who attend. The knights are planning an unusually active social season for 1913-14.

TEACHERS' PENSIONS

DISCUSSED IN BULLETIN ISSUED BY UNITED STATES BUREAU OF EDUCATION

Are pensions in general wise? Should a state pension its workers? Should it pay pensions to teachers any more than to any other class of employees? These are questions discussed in a bulletin just issued by the United States bureau of education. The immediate purpose of the bulletin is to describe the pension systems of Great Britain, but in the course of the study Raymond W. Sles, the author, takes occasion to discuss the principles underlying all pensions, and especially teachers' pensions in the United States.

Teachers' pensions and pension systems, according to Dr. Sles, represent one phase of what has become a universal movement among civilized peoples—a movement to "dispose of the superannuated and disabled individual and to job old age of its economic terrors." Pensions for school teachers, he points out, have existed in Germany in some form or other for two or three centuries, and in other European countries for the better part of a century or more. On the continent the benefits of teachers' pensions have often been extended to include widows and orphans of teachers. In Scotland a comprehensive system has been developed, based on scientific insurance principles, which Dr. Sles considers especially valuable for the United States. A teacher's pension shall be supported in whole or in part by the state, or whether they shall be financed entirely by the teachers themselves, is a problem that has been solved differently in different countries. In Germany the state finances the entire plan, the teachers making no contributions whatsoever. In France the teachers are heavily assessed to keep the pension system going. In the United States the tendency is to ask small contributions from the teachers. As a permanent arrangement Dr. Sles favors the German plan, not because he thinks it any more generous to the teachers, but because he considers it better business for the state to finance and manage the system itself. He shows that in any event the burden is ultimately shifted to the teachers.

While admitting, therefore, that contributions may be necessary to start a substantial pension system, he believes they should be discontinued as soon as possible. In his opinion contributory pensions from teachers as a permanent feature not only add nothing to the effectiveness of a pension plan, but they introduce needless complexity, they are a source of constant irritation and misunderstanding, and they are responsible for a vast amount of unnecessary bookkeeping and other clerical work. Dr. Sles concludes with a strong recommendation for a non-contributory pension system for American teachers.

SUPRAGETTES CREATE GREAT EXCITEMENT IN GLASGOW COURT ROOM—TWO JAILED

GLASGOW, Scot., Oct. 15.—Two militant supragettes, Margaret Morrison, an artist, and Mrs. Smith, a physician, were sentenced yesterday at the court of sessions to eight months' imprisonment each for attempting, on July 24, to set fire to a mansion in a Glasgow suburb, which was at one time the residence of the late Sir John Aitken, an ex-lord mayor of Glasgow.

There was a wild scene in court when the judge, Lord Salvesen, pronounced the sentence. Late supragettes hurled vegetables and apples at the judge's head and sang the "Marseillaise." Three women were arrested.

LAYERS TO ASK HEARING

Deport Chief of Police Will Urge Civil Service Rights at Meeting of Normal Selectionmen

NORWOOD, Oct. 16.—James Y. Lavers, who was removed from the office of chief of police by vote of the selectionmen, and was officially notified to that effect yesterday, told a reporter that he intended to ask the board of selectionmen for a hearing, as is his right under the civil service law. He declined to say anything more for publication.

TRIAL HELD UP NO STREET CARS

Defendant in Conspiracy Case Says He Was Approached

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Efforts to procure a jury to try Daniel Donahoe and Isaac Steifel, the lawyer and detective charged with conspiracy to defame Clarence S. Funk, former general manager of the International Harvester Company, were interrupted yesterday by alleged revelations of an attempt to tamper with the jury. Three jurors had been accepted by both sides. Before the afternoon session defendant Donahoe requested an interview with Judge Pam in his chambers, and there declared that he had been approached by Ventreman Elwood L. Leiby, who told Donahoe, he said, "he could be of use to him."

Donahoe said Leiby came to his house and warned him that "they are going to job you."

"You cannot be of any use to me," I told him," said Donahoe. "I can get on the jury and I can help you," he insisted. "I don't want any money. They are going to job you, that's all."

Judge Pam ordered Leiby brought into his chambers. Leiby is a steam-fitter. As a result of his statements to Judge Pam subpoenas were issued for several persons living at the rooming house of which Leiby said he was proprietor.

Attorney Forrest, representing Donahoe, said the defense exposed Leiby in order that the public might not think the alleged jury tampering was the work of the defendants. Donahoe said he had his conversation with Leiby Oct. 9.

After the examination of Leiby, questioning of ventreman proceeded. Widespread publicity given the allegation suit against Funk, which is the basis of the present conspiracy trial, made the selection of unprejudiced jurors difficult and several more days are expected to be consumed before the 12 men are sworn.
